PRETTY ATLANTA WIFE, 22, IS MURDERED, BODY CRAMMED INTO TRUNK IN BASEMENT

23 Enemy Ships Blasted By Allied Pacific Airmen

12 Warcraft Among Vessels Sunk, Damaged

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP)—American-Australian air forces striking with relentless fury at Japanese invasion bases in New Guinea have sunk or damaged 23 enemy ships, including 12 warships, and wrecked numerous shore installations in one of the greatest Allied aerial actions of the war in the western Pacific. Allied forces lost one plane.

The victory was announced by the Navy today, and authorities immediately acclaimed it as fresh, vivid evidence of the growing power of American warplane concentrations in the Australian area and a clear indication of the defense-by-attack which the Japanese now must face there.

Since 11 of the Japanese vessels were either transports or cargo ships, it was considered probable that the raid had cost the enemy a considerable personnel loss as well as destruction of ships.

Results of the bombardment, directed at enemy vessels and installations in and near Salamaua and Lae, New Guinea, were regarded here as offsetting to some extent losses of United Nations naval forces in the Battle of Java late last month, when five cruisers, including the U. S. S. Houston, seven destroyers, including the U. S. S. Pope, and a sloop were lost.

To those losses the Navy added today the 1,315-ton submarine Shark, the 1,450-ton submarine Sea Lion and the 1,190-ton destroyer Stewart. Lieutenant Commander Louis Shane Jr., the commanding officer, and all his crew were reported lost with the Shark, first of the hard-hitting fleet of United States undersea craft to fail to return from far-flung raiding operations against the Japanese.

Demolished at Cavite. The Sea Lion, previously badly damaged, was demolished by the United States forces at Cavite to prevent her falling into enemy hands when they captured that Philippine base in January. For the same reason, the Stewart was demolished in dry dock at the Dutch Indies base of Soerabaja early this month when efforts to put her in serviceable condition failed.

Counting the Houston and the Pope, these additions raised to five the total of United States warships announced as lost in the western Pacific since the start of the war. As against this, up to today the Army and Navy had announced a total of 51 Japanese warships sunk or damaged and a total of 151 ships of all types sunk or damaged.

Today's Navy announcement, also covering the successes scored by Australian airmen, boosted this total to 174 and the aggregate of

City Official Shows 'Proof' of Dirty Milk

By HERMAN HANCOCK.

Unsanitary, manure-strewn milking barns; lack of toilet facilities; failure to sterilize utensils and to clean milking animals, watering and skimming of milk, and other offering it as a pure product, are among the reasons for canceling permits of 30 shippers and producers of milk in the Atlanta area since January 1, 1942, Elroy K. Day, chief city milk sanitarian, said yesterday.

Exhibiting a record of inspections in which one or more of the faults were registered and in many cases where half a score of defects were found repeatedly, Day said the only way to safeguard the public from dirty milk and milk exposed to contamination by faulty handling and exposure, was to clamp down on those who "simply refuse to co-operate."

His statement came yesterday on the eve of a conference set for 10 o'clock this morning to attempt to iron out the latest row between state and city authorities over municipal inspection policies.

Tom Linder, state agriculture commissioner, and Councilman James E. Jackson Jr., chairman of city council's health and sanitation committee, Dr. James F. Hackney, assistant city health officer, Day and others will participate.

Emphasizing that the city is doing everything possible to help milk producers, shippers and distributors to comply with new ordinances which became effective January 1, Day released newly compiled figures showing that permits of 19 shippers and 11 producers and distributors have been cancelled since January 1. Only 19 permits were revoked, the remainder went out of business.

Of the 458 producers shipping into Atlanta January 1, a total of 439 are still operating and 92 have met all requirements with the remaining 347 making efforts to do so, Day said. He also said there were 189 producers in Atlanta on January 1, that 178 are still functioning, and that 79 have met all

Gasoline Price Is Frozen at March 13 Level

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP)—The Office of Price Administration tonight froze filling station prices for gasoline in the District of Columbia and 19 states along the Atlantic coast and in the Pacific northwest at the levels of last Friday.

The emergency 60-day price ceiling covers the area where a 20 per cent curtailment in deliveries has been compelled by the sinking of tankers and the diversion of shipping to war uses. This curtailment takes effect at midnight tonight.

The price order is effective next Monday, March 23. Violations may be punished upon conviction by a maximum fine of $5,000 or imprisonment for one year, or both, Acting Price Administrator John E. Hamm warned.

Licensing Seen. Hamm said his office was giving "serious consideration" to the licensing of all filling station operators in the so-called "curtailment area" as an additional measure to guarantee compliance with the price ceiling. Under such a plan any gasoline retailer who violated the order would be subject to court action to have the license suspended.

The price order applies to gasoline stations in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, Delaware, West Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, east of the Apalachicola river, Oregon, Washington and the District of Columbia.

Four Rules Made. These four rules were set forth: 1. No price may be charged for any grade of motor fuel that is higher than the price that was posted for the same grade at the close of business, or at 11 p. m. (local time) on March 13, 1942. 2. If for some reason there was no posted price on that date, then the service station cannot charge more than the price at which it made its last sale of a similar grade of motor fuel during the 60 days prior to March 13, 1942. 3. In the event a service station has begun operations since March 13, 1942, it may establish temporary maximum prices not higher than those of other operators in the locality. In these cases, however, the temporary price must be submitted to OPA within 10 days for approval.

Must Post Price. 4. The maximum price for each grade of gasoline sold at the station must be posted conspicuously in letters at least five inches tall.

Temporary price regulations normally are applied to cope with swiftly developing inflationary movements, where it is impossible to prepare a permanent price regulation in time to halt the price movement. In most cases they are followed, at the expiration of 60 days, by permanent price orders which may set lower levels.

Under the quota system effective at midnight each filling station operator will receive 20 per cent less gasoline, and so will be under the necessity of curtailing his sales by that amount. The 100,000 stations in the affected areas have been directed to spread their supplies as far as possible and to space them evenly over the month. The WPB order requires the retailers to confine their operations to 12 hours daily, six days a week.

Wisest Traders Use Persuaders

You would be surprised—or maybe you wouldn't, at that—at the large number of Atlanta firms who keep their offerings before the people of Atlanta every day by use of Want Ads in The Constitution. Firms, and smart-trading individuals as well, know that results are bound to come from everlasting plugging at the big market represented by the readers of The Constitution.

IN HAPPIER DAYS—This picture of Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Williams was taken shortly before her disappearance last November 21. The body of the young woman was found yesterday, stuffed in a trunk in a water-soaked basement on Stewart avenue.

4 in Family Where Body Was Discovered Held for Questioning

By LAMAR Q. BALL.

From the far, dark corner of a littered, water-soaked cellar at 1117 Stewart avenue, two workmen yesterday dragged an old-fashioned metal automobile trunk and pried open the lid to find—the battered, trussed body of 22-year-old Mrs. Mildred Seymour Williams, attractive, brown-haired clerk who disappeared November 21 on her way to work in a Whitehall street shoe store.

Four persons were held incommunicado at police station this morning as police at midnight ended a four-hour grilling of members of the family in whose house the body was found.

Those looked on charges of suspicion of murder, without benefit of calls or visitors until police have completed the investigation, include:

Mrs. Minnie Lee Griffin, 49.
T. E. Griffin, 26, a son.
J. W. Griffin, 16, a son.
K. D. Hubert, 22, 1586 Elixir avenue, S. W., a son-in-law of Mrs. Griffin.

Police offered no explanation as they took the three young men and the woman to cells in the station.

A piece of rope, declared by police to be somewhat similar to the rope with which the body of the murdered woman had been trussed, was being held by police last night for an examination by FBI experts. The rope, said Detective Superintendent J. A. McKibben, was found in the Griffin home.

The cellar in which the young woman's body was found virtually hermetically sealed within the solid, cramped makeshift coffin was about 40 feet away from the duplex apartment where Mrs. Williams lived with her husband, P. M. Williams, at 640 Mayland avenue, S. W.

All last night detectives struggled to unravel rumors from facts in a mounting pile of testimony and evidence which included:

1. An organized poison pen attack on the reputation of the young woman whose friends and neighbors and employers declare lived a model life.

2. Mysterious telephone calls to relatives of the young woman for two weeks after her strange disappearance.

3. A mysterious telephone call within the last few weeks telling relatives that the young woman was being held a prisoner in the house in which her body was found. Police searched the house for a prisoner but failed to suspect the contents of the trunk in the cellar.

While detectives sifted these weird stories, Coroner's Physician J. C. Blacklock revealed the brutal details of the murder.

Had Been Hanged.

A strong window sash rope was tied around the young woman's throat and she was hanged by the neck. While still alive, suspended by the rope, she was beaten about the head with a "blunt instrument," believed by police to have been a heavy, wooden sledge hammer found in the basement where the body was discovered. Her skull was fractured in two places, although the skin was not broken. Three teeth were battered out of her mouth.

The slayer then lowered his victim, and trussed up the body while it was still warm, looping the rope around her neck and under her knees until she was compactly bound.

Her trussed body was still clothed although the coat and hat she had been wearing had been removed and were stuck into the trunk on top of the body.

Jewelry Undisturbed.

On the body were found a diamond engagement ring, a wedding ring and a wrist watch. A novelty breast pin had not been disturbed. Sunday's heavy rainstorm was directly responsible for the discovery of the murder element in a baffling four-month-old mystery of a young woman's disappearance.

The home at 1117 Stewart avenue, where the body was found, lies in a deep hollow and is the victim of floods in every unusual rainstorm. Sunday afternoon, rainwater swept down Stewart avenue and mounted six feet deep in the basement of this house, owned and occupied by T. E. Griffin and his mother, Mrs. J. W. Griffin.

The Griffins hired two Negro laborers yesterday to siphon out the muddy remains of the floodwater and to clean up the basement. Old furniture and all the odds and ends of cellar accumulation had been heaped high in the yard outside before the laborers encountered the trunk.

Groesome Sight.

The two men struggled with the solid metal case and decided it was unusually heavy. They pried open the lid to clean up the basement. Old furniture and all the odds and ends of cellar accumulation had been heaped high in the yard outside before the laborers encountered the trunk.

Neighbors collected from blocks around within a few minutes. Automobiles pulled up at the curb and traffic along Stewart avenue was blocked until special traffic policemen could be rushed to the scene along with the investigating detectives—D. L. Taylor and J. M. Austin. Superintendent of Detectives J. O. McKibben hurried to the scene to help in the investigation.

Then came the revelation that the victim of the murder had once lived in the house where her

Shed Coats To Win War, Men Are Urged

By WILLARD COPE.

The federal government's liaison officer with the state of Georgia, Francis F. Shurling, yesterday launched a movement that was hailed instantly all over town as—(a) statesmanly; (b) humanitarian and (c) a contribution toward victory.

"Why not," he queried, "let's all of us start in right here and now and plan a concerted move so that, this summer, the males of the species will conduct themselves with a little more horse-sense than usual?"

"Why not, I say, set out and establish as a convention that when the hot weather creeps up on us—and it won't be long now!—we will all go without our coats?"

"Of good all around. So I say to all and sundry: How about it?" Inquiry developed that one of the chief supposed obstacles, the austere courtrooms of the United States judiciary here in the Old Post Office, needn't necessarily prove a stumbling block at all.

Charles A. McGrew, veteran deputy clerk, commending the plan enthusiastically, recalled several precedents, notably the extended Kopald-Quinn trial in which various participants, though not the presiding judge, E. Marvin Underwood, operated in shirt-sleeves.

The military mind, ever interested in practical comfort as a means to efficiency, was given expression by Colonel Lindley W. Camp, commanding the Georgia state guard.

"It's the most sensible thing to do," he declared. "This is war time. There is work for all of us to do. There is no doubt that trying to work in a coat is irksome in some of the hot weather we have. I say Brother Shurling has hit on a fine practical idea. Let's all have the courage to follow our real desires—and take off our coats when it starts getting hot."

Frankie Sinkwich, Co-ed Wed

ROYSTON, Ga., March 18.—(AP)—Frankie Sinkwich, the University of Georgia's All-America backfield star at football, and Miss Adeline Weatherly, 19, Oglethorpe University co-ed, were married at Abbeville, S. C., today in a surprise ceremony.

The couple met at Athens, where the bride attended the University of Georgia for two years, entering as a freshman when Sinkwich was a sophomore. Sinkwich will be a senior next year.

Excitement, he told friends. When contacted by newsmen, he went ahead with the announcement.

Sinkwich came to the university from Youngstown, Ohio, where he had been a star high school football player.

The bride has gained some prominence as a dancer, teaming with her sister, Dot Weatherly, a student at Oglethorpe, for appearances at various places in Florida and Georgia.

Sinkwich said he has not changed his plans to continue at the university next fall, where he will be eligible for another season of football. His original plans were to enter the law school after graduation.

ODT Urges Changes In Milk Deliveries

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP) Proposals to place home milk deliveries on a daylight, every-other-day basis are being studied by the Office of Defense Transportation as a means of conserving dairy vehicles and tires.

John L. Rogers, director of the ODT motor transport division, said tonight that the suggestions had resulted from investigations by his staff and that he had asked management and labor in the retail milk distribution field to co-operate with ODT in developing some general plan.

In addition, he said, the inquiry indicated that special deliveries and Sunday wholesale deliveries could be eliminated. Daylight deliveries, Rogers explained, would eliminate "call backs" by dairy drivers, such as for collections.

Weather Office Here Gets First Girl Observer

Harriette A. Armstrong Assigned to Airport Bureau.

A 21-year-old Atlanta girl who carries a frightening amount of physics, mathematics and astronomy around in her smooth dark head, this week became Uncle Sam's first girl weather observer in the southeast since he issued a call for them three weeks ago. She is Miss Harriette A. Armstrong, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. T. Blake Armstrong, of 404 North avenue, N. E., and she is assigned to the staff of the airport weather bureau as a junior observer.

Glen Jefferson, regional director for the southeast, announced the selection of Miss Armstrong yesterday, the first of approximately 25 girl weather observers needed in the section to replace men observers who are being assigned to meteorological work for the armed forces.

Miss Armstrong is a graduate of Tulane University where she majored in physics and minored in mathematics and astronomy.

"Sounds impressive," agreed the diminutive dark-haired girl, "but let's wait and see how much of it I remember and how good I am on this job. So far I've done nothing but observe the observers—but I think I'm going to be crazy about my job."

Miss Armstrong, like the other girl observers which Director Jefferson said would be employed within the next few weeks, was hired with the understanding that her job existed "for the duration" only. But she will be given a civil service rating and if her job exists when the war is over she might like to stick with it.

That is, if she is not married in the meantime to a certain young selectee out in Wyoming. He's an Alabama boy Miss Armstrong met at Tulane, but he, too, is busy in Uncle Sam's service at the moment.

Defense Work Contractors Get Part of Pay To Meet Here From Circus

Session Called To Speed Output for War Effort.

A war production session of the first importance, to throw all of the energies of Georgia, Tennessee, South Carolina, and Florida into the scale against the Axis powers, will be held here next Monday by prime contractors for airplanes, tanks, guns and ships.

Preston S. Arkwright, president of the Georgia Power Company, who will preside, emphasized the gathering was a part of the War Production Board's plan to take every possible step to increase production, and recognition of the south's steadily mounting industrial importance to the war effort.

"This meeting calls both management and labor together to plan effectively for the country's vital needs," he said. "Its purpose is greater speed, greater accuracy, greater devotion—all translated into greater production of those munitions of war without which our finest military genius would be frustrated."

Nelson Quoted.
He quoted Donald M. Nelson, head of the War Production Board, on the purpose of this and similar meetings throughout the country: "This drive is not designed to further the special interests of a group. It is not a device to add to or tear down power or position of any existing unions. It does not interfere with bargaining machinery where it exists. It is not a management plan, a labor plan or any other plan."

"It is the War Production Board plan. It is a perfectly simple, straightforward effort to increase production."

Three hundred of the south's important manufacturers are to attend, and they will be met by three WPB representatives, Thomas H. Daniel, consultant of Atlanta; John L. Beckham, of Oklahoma City; and Alexander Kellenbenz, of Philadelphia.

Committee Organization.
The meeting will be started at 9 o'clock in the Dixie ballroom of the Henry Grady hotel.

One phase of the meetings will deal with organization of plant committees, made up both of labor and management representatives, by which the War Production Board plans to establish more direct responsibility for the flow of war orders.

Timing of the meetings was declared to coincide with the reference of President Roosevelt to "the supreme importance of war production this crucial spring" in a letter to Chairman Nelson.

The meeting here will be followed by one the next day in Birmingham.

FIRST LADY OF THE WEATHER—Most girls depend upon the morning paper or the curl in their hair to tell them what the weather is going to do, but Harriette A. Armstrong is as scientific as the weather bureau. In fact, the young woman shown here with a radio sonde has just joined the weather bureau staff as a junior observer—the first one taken on in the southeast since the war created a need for girls in the service.

Cooking School Will Be Staged By Sally Saver

Show Will Be Held at Baptist Church in Grove Park.

Sally Saver, foods editor of The Constitution, will hold her only cooking school of the spring at the Center Hill Baptist church in the Grove Park section at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning.

The school will be devoted to Easter delicacies and the preparation of dishes rich in nutrition and low in cost—a factor which is playing such a large part in the war effort.

Miss Saver will bake a ham and decorate it appropriately for Easter and make a molded milk pudding with fresh strawberry sauce. The economy foods to be illustrated are a pot roast of beef with vegetables and baked liver with vegetables.

The school will be open to the public. There will be a small admission charge, proceeds to go to the Woman's Missionary Union of the church.

Mrs. S. C. Bobo is chairman of the cooking school committee at the church. Others on the committee are Mrs. Ray Fitzgerald, president of the W. M. U., and Mrs. J. W. Smith, Mrs. R. E. Finch and Mrs. W. A. Norton, circle chairmen.

Lottery Ended, 9 Million More Face Draft Call

Three Errors Corrected Following Drawing of 7,000 Numbers.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP) With three official bobbles out of more than 7,000 possibilities of error, the first draft lottery of the war ended today, establishing the order in which 9,000,000 men will be called for possible Army service.

It took over 13 hours and an all-night machine-like routine to draw the numbered green capsules from an outsized and famous old goldfish bowl. Secretary of War Stimson drew the first number. An Albany (Ga.) bluejacket, Albert Carter, grinning because the long grind was over, drew the last.

Two 2,885's found. But then, a quick checkup showed that instead of the 7,000 numbers which should have appeared by that time, the total was 6,998. Two were missing. Earlier, it had developed, moreover, that two of the capsules contained the same number—2,885. It came out as the 742d and the 1,638th numbers drawn.

Selective service officials went into a huddle and decided a printer's error was involved. One of the 2,885's should have been 2,385.

Reach Decision.

Additional conferring resulted in a decision: No. 2,885 would be recorded officially as the 1,638th drawn, and the 742d draw would be ignored. This meant that all the order numbers above 741 had to be advanced a notch, and it all wound up with 2,885 being given order number 1,637.

Then, at the end, the two missing numbers—6,342 and 2,069—were tossed into the goldfish bowl together with 2,385, which had been involved in the printer's error duplication of 2,885. The three capsules were shuffled and drawn.

The result: 6,342 became order number 6,998, serial number 2,069 was order number 6,999, and 2,385 became order number 7,000.

The serial numbers were those assigned to the men when they registered February 16. The order in which they were drawn from the bowl fixed the sequence in which the qualified registrants will be assigned to duty in the Army. More than 9,000,000 men from 20 to 44 inclusive were involved—all men between those ages except men who registered in 1940 and 1941.

Many were discussing today a possibility that men might be drafted for work in the war factories as well as on the battle lines. Brigadier General Lewis B. Hershey, chief of the selective system, strongly suggested such action in a brief speech which preceded the drawing.

New South Club Will Open for Business Today

Modern Restaurant Staffed With Veterans, Seats 300.

Atlanta's newest, most modern and most beautifully appointed restaurant—the New South Club, Inc., at 23 1-2 Broad street, S. W.—will open for business today, offering the public the best cuisine available at popular prices.

The new eating place has 6,000 square feet of floor space, and is operated and staffed with veterans of the business. E. T. Day, who formerly managed Thompson's, Vaughn's and the P. & W. Grand Restaurants in Atlanta and the Times Square restaurant in New York, is manager, and has selected a group of efficient and experienced aides to assist him in giving a superior service to patrons.

Talmadge Day, formerly affiliated with "The Atlanta Constitution" is general manager of the New South Club, Inc., and is devoting his entire time to supervision of its activities. The organization is composed of Atlantans, and the enterprise is home-owned and home-operated. Members subscribed $50,000 worth of stock.

The new restaurant, comfortably seating about 300 persons at one time, cost about $30,000.

Police Commission Head Resigns at Dalton

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.
DALTON, Ga., March 18.—George L. Rice, chairman of Dalton's police commission since it was founded, has resigned due to the demands on his time by business interests and his resignation was accepted this week by city council.

Hugh Hamilton has been appointed as a member of the three-man commission to succeed Mr. Rice, and John Herndon has been named as chairman of the body. Charles Boyles is the third member of the commission which is responsible for the operation of the city's law enforcement agencies.

Columbus Registrant Is Already at Benning

COLUMBUS, Ga., March 18.—(AP)—The first Columbus man affected by the third selective service lottery drawing yesterday, already is in Fort Benning.

Serial Number 441, the fourth number drawn in Washington yesterday, was Order No. 1 here and was held by Larry Oscar Lee, employed at the Officer's Club at the fort.

The man who can lay a roof without "laying down" on the job is advertising in the Business Service column in the Want Ad pages of The Constitution.

Ramspeck Hits Press and Radio

Congressman Robert Ramspeck yesterday criticized radio stations and newspapers for "failure to have the facts before them when printing news of the war and actions of congress," in a speech before the women's division of DeKalb county Democrats in the Decatur city hall.

He specifically accused H. V. Kallenborn, radio news commentator, of "distortion" of news on the strike situation in a broadcast Sunday afternoon.

Factories are now running full time and President Roosevelt's goals in war production will be reached, Ramspeck predicted.

Shippers To Hear I. C. C. Member

Colonel J. M. Johnson, a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, will address the Southeast Shippers' Advisory Board at their luncheon session at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Ansley hotel.

The board opened its annual meeting yesterday morning, devoting the entire session to the Southern Traffic League. Following an executive committee luncheon, the railroad transportation committee met yesterday afternoon, and last night, board members were guests of the transportation club at a smoker given at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP) The senate has confirmed Ruby Anderson as postmaster at Preston, Ga.

Two More Merchant Ships Torpedoed; Nine Lives Lost

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Two more merchant ships were torpedoed off the Atlantic coast early Sunday with the loss of at least nine lives, the Navy disclosed last night. Two seamen were listed as missing and were presumed to have been hit while in a lifeboat.

Six lives were lost in the sinking of an American merchantman of medium tonnage which was waylaid by three enemy submarines that sent two torpedoes into her engine room. One projectile struck beneath a lifeboat as it was being lowered and blew the boat, occupied by six men, to bits. Thirty-three crew members, 29 of them uninjured, were landed at Morehead City, N. C., after being adrift on life rafts from three to nine hours.

The other vessel, carrying a crew of 36, was torpedoed at 1:22 a. m. eastern war time, the Sixth Naval District said, and the target was outlined by red and green Very lights from a submarine. Three were killed and five reported missing, although three of the five were said to have been picked up by rescue craft. Fifteen of the crew were injured and nine were still under hospital care yesterday at Charleston, S. C.

The dead from the three-way sub attack were listed as James Otis Hagood, of Tom Creek, Ala.; Powell E. Foster, Dayton, Ohio; George Drake, North Scituate, R. I.; Horatio Armstrong, Staten Island, N. Y.; James Baskin, Murfreesboro, Tenn., and Bertiz Canton, Beaumont, Texas.

In the other torpedoing Anuncio Quizumbra, messman, Forestdale, R. I., and Clifford Gaines, second cook, Chester, Pa., were killed, and Joseph Corrigan, wiper, New York city, died after reaching a Charleston (S. C.) hospital.

It was the second torpedo which accounted for the loss of life on the first ship.

"They could see us as plainly as we could see them," said Captain Theodore Bockhoff, "and they knew that the lifeboat was being lowered. Both torpedoes were placed very accurately in the engine room."

The attack, the captain reported, was carried out by one large and two small submarines. The first projectile struck aft on the port side and disabled the engines.

"As the starboard lifeboat hit the water with six men in it," Captain Bockhoff added, "the second torpedo came under her, striking the ship with a tremendous explosion that blasted the boat to bits. The boat itself was not seen again, although the air tanks were found later, floating near the scene, by one of the rescue vessels."

The captain estimated the second torpedo was fired from a distance of about 280 yards, and John C. Smith, chief mate, of New York city, declared one of the subs was so close it looked "like the back of a whale."

The whole crew was brought to the deck by the first hit, and lifeboats were made ready while the men waited for the ship to lose enough speed to prevent the boats capsizing. James Sherlock, ordinary seaman, of Lemant, Pa., and a companion rushed to the starboard lifeboat after the first explosion, but under instructions from the captain didn't lower the boat until after the second torpedo struck.

"We picked up five or six men from the water and started away," Sherlock related. "About then a submarine appeared between our lifeboat and the ship, not 10 yards from our boat. We were trying to row away from it when somebody yelled, 'Take it easy, there's another one.' Then we changed our course and by mistake rowed right between two subs."

TRUNK WAS FOUND HERE—City Policeman Virgil Whitley examines the spot in the basement at 1117 Stewart avenue where the body of pretty Mrs. Mildred Williams was found in a metal automobile trunk. She had been missing since November 21. Negroes found the body while cleaning the basement yesterday.

Finding of Body Deep Mystery To Husband

"I just don't know what to think," P. M. Williams, husband of pretty Mrs. Mildred Seymour Williams, whose body was found stuffed in an old automobile trunk in the basement of a Stewart avenue residence, said yesterday afternoon.

"Her disappearance was a deep mystery to me, and the discovery of the body in this trunk is a still deeper mystery."

Williams, a life insurance salesman, corroborated the identification by Mrs. J. J. Allen, mother of Mrs. Williams, of the grey woolen coat, found stuffed into the small trunk with the body.

It took only a brief glimpse for him, then he turned, leaned on the shoulder of his brother, Motorcycle Policeman G. H. Williams, and walked away from the gruesome scene.

Williams is a victim of a recent accident, and his right arm is in a sling, while there are several lacerations on his face.

He was among the last of the immediate family to learn of the discovery of the body, and reached the undertaking establishment shortly before 6 o'clock last night.

"I never could understand why my wife disappeared," he said. "We had not had any trouble, were happy, and there was no reason whatever for her running away from home. As time went on, it became more mysterious, and then this—I just don't know what to think."

The husband was questioned in detail by Mrs. Paul Donehoo and Detective C. L. Taylor before the body was removed from the trunk by Dr. J. C. Blalock, coroner's physician.

MOTHER AT SCENE—Mrs. J. J. Allen (left), mother of Mrs. Mildred Williams, is shown talking with Mrs. Paul Donehoo, Fulton county coroner, after she had identified the body of her daughter by her clothing.

Strong Jap Force Advances in Burma

NEW DELHI, India, March 18.—(AP)—The battle for Central Burma, its oil reserves and its approaches to India, was on in earnest tonight with sharp fighting between British forward troops and a strong Japanese force pushing northward up the main road toward Toungoo.

The scene of the action was south of Kanyutkwin, a railroad town 40 miles south of Toungoo and more than 100 miles north of Japanese-held Rangoon. The British advance forces, having pulled back about 30 miles from their former positions on the east wing of their line, at about the point where it makes contact with Chinese troops, were fighting a series of delaying actions.

These took the shape of jungle ambushes set by the British forward units.

Atlanta Sees Far Reaching War Effect

ATHENS, Ga., March 18.—Lieutenant Colonel Kendall Weisiger, O. R. C., and general information manager of the Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Co., of Atlanta, Tuesday addressed members of the Athens Kiwanis Club on the topic, "After the Conflict—What Then?"

Mr. Weisiger feels that the world is now being shaken by a great convulsion, which will have a more telling effect upon civilization than the fall of the Roman Empire, and that we must now "awake, arise or be forever fallen."

The Atlantan expressed the belief that all the world now looks to America to turn the tide to victory and afterwards, to lead in the rehabilitation and reconstruction of a war-torn world which will "stagger and bleed for a long time."

Brutal Murder Recalls Past Major Crimes

Slaying of Mrs. Williams First of Kind in Police Records Here.

The bizarre death of Mrs. P. M. Williams, whose body was found yesterday in a metal trunk in the basement of a southside residence, recalled other brutal murders, involving women victims, in Atlanta during the past quarter century.

Most recent was the pickaxe slaying of Mrs. Antoinette Farnsworth Drew, Atlanta artist, whose body was found at her Harris street home last August. No clues as to the slayer or the motive have yet been found.

Mysterious disappearance of the Nelms sisters, Mrs. Beatrice Nelms Dennis and Miss Eloise Nelms, in 1915, soon after they inherited considerable property, still baffles police. The women were apparently inveigled into going west to Phoenix, Ariz., and were never heard from again. Several persons were tried in this case but no convictions were ever obtained.

The case of Leo Frank, lynched for the murder of a young girl, Mary Phagan, whose body was found in the basement of a pencil factory at the corner of Hunter and Forsyth street, where she worked, remains one of Atlanta's most famous slayings.

Although other states have had brutal "trunk murders" similar to that of Mrs. Williams, the one uncovered yesterday is the first of its kind to occur in Atlanta in police records.

ADMIRALTY WARNING. LONDON, March 18.—(AP)—The admiralty issued a warning today that all of the Bay of Biscay, except for a 20-mile strip along the British coast, and thousands of square miles of the Atlantic ocean southeast of England "are dangerous to shipping."

Atlanta Wife Found Slain, Stuffed in Trunk

body had lain for four months in the basement.

Moved Around Corner.

"She and her husband had rented two rooms in our house," said Griffin, "and last April they moved around the corner on Mayland avenue to the duplex apartment."

"I saw Mrs. Williams the day before she disappeared. She visited my wife in the hospital where our baby had been born."

The mother of the slain woman—Mrs. J. J. Allen, of 516 Lee street, S. W.—was summoned by police to verify their identification of the body. The tired, worn mother viewed her daughter's corpse and said, as in a daze:

"That's my daughter. I know her clothes."

Police had tried to shield her from an actual view of the body.

Husband Collapses.

Mrs. Williams' husband—P. M. Williams, an insurance company supervisor—was found during the afternoon and hurried to the mortuary where he collapsed as he verified the mother's identification.

The motive behind the crime baffled police, as well as relatives and friends, fellow-workers and the employer of the trim young woman who had earned a remarkable record as an outstanding shoe saleswoman.

"I receive virtually every telephone call that comes into this store," said the manager yesterday. "I know Mrs. Williams had never received any calls from anyone other than her mother and her husband. She was a model saleswoman, a model of good conduct. I was so worried when she disappeared—so mysteriously—that I instigated a private investigation of my own."

Mrs. Williams, the manager said, had never missed a day away from her work. Men and women clerks in the store were stunned by the discovery of the body and all confessed they had been worried lest disaster had befallen their fellow worker.

Neighbors gathered at the scene of the finding of the body agreed that all had known the young woman as having a spotless reputation—a loyal wife who led a respected life.

Then came the stories of the mysterious poison pen notes and the mysterious telephone calls.

Jealousy or the unrequited love of some one who loved the extremely attractive young woman secretly, without even her knowledge, were police theories about these angles last night. Robbery theories were dismissed with the discovery of the jewelry on the body.

Daylight Crime.

The fact that the crime probably had been committed in broad daylight at some mysterious point was another problem facing police. The woman was seen last shortly after 1 o'clock the afternoon of her disappearance. She was to have worked a late shift at the store.

The mysterious message which warned relatives, a few weeks ago, that "your daughter is being held a prisoner at 1117 Stewart avenue" was recalled by Detectives Taylor and Austin.

The mother, it was said, summoned the police to help her search the Griffin house when this message was received.

The detectives went through every room in the house, including the basement where apparently the body, at that time, was hidden in the trunk.

"We were looking for a live woman—a prisoner," explained the detectives yesterday.

The trunk was owned by the Griffins and has been in their basement for a number of years.

"It's always been lying over by the back door of the basement," said Griffin yesterday. "None of us had noticed that it had been moved. We had so much junk down there that I doubt if we would have noticed it."

Told of Search.

"I remember that day," said Griffin. "My wife told me when I came home from the filling station where I work that police had been out to search the house. She remained in her room with the baby. The detectives, she said, went all through the place."

Again and again, mysterious telephone calls reached the panicked relatives.

While this search was going on, the husband moved from the house on Mayland avenue. He recalled yesterday that he had been married five years last January 1 and that his wife had bought a new evening gown before her death.

"We usually celebrated our wedding day every New Year's," he said. "She had been very proud of the dress she had bought for the celebration this New Year's. Then—she disappeared."

"We Were Happy."

"For a couple of days before her disappearance she had been doing her Christmas shopping early. She had several Christmas packages—all gift-wrapped and waiting for the day. She had no reason to disappear. We were very happy."

Mrs. J. T. Neal, an aunt of the murder victim, declared yesterday that the continued mysterious telephone calls had convinced her that a crime had been committed and that her niece had not voluntarily disappeared.

"I asked detectives," she said, "shortly after Mildred disappeared, whether they had searched the basement at 1117 Stewart avenue. 'You are always reading about bodies being found in basements,' I told the police."

"They told me the basement was in order."

The poison-pen letters to the young woman, accusing her of "carrying on with a married man," were said to have worried her to a severe nerve strain.

"She and her husband," said a relative, "both offered to straighten out any tangle or misunderstanding if they could find out some intelligible answer to the source of the letters."

Mrs. Williams was five feet two and weighed 102 pounds.

Surviving, in addition to her husband, are her father, H. J. Seymour; her mother, Mrs. Lois Allen; and a brother, Harry Seymour Jr.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by H. M. Patterson & Son.

Funeral services will be held at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon, at Saint Hill, with the Rev. W. Lee Cuts officiating. Burial will be in Crest Lawn cemetery.

SUICIDE CONFIRMED.

SANTIAGO, Chile, March 18.—(AP)—A dispatch from Tokyo to the newspaper El Chileno said today the suicide of Lieutenant General Masaharu Homma for failure to destroy the American and Filipino defense forces in the Philippines had been "confirmed."

Back U. S. Law To Bar Liquor, Prostitution Near Reservations.

Federal legislation to outlaw prostitution and sale of liquor in the vicinity of military camps was endorsed yesterday by the Georgia Baptist Woman's Missionary Union.

Delegates to the union's 60th anniversary meeting here were urged to sign petitions which will be sent to Georgia congressmen asking their support of the proposed law. The convention fixed the union's financial goal for the coming year at $200,000, an increase of approximately $10,000 over last year's budget, and set aside $2,000 of this for the W. M. U. training school at Louisville, Ky.

The three-day meeting will close today following election of officers. A nominating committee which will report at next year's convention was elected yesterday.

Its members are Mrs. Elmer Twitty, of Gainesville; Mrs. W. M. Sapp, of Dalton; Mrs. A. S. Johnson, of Norcross; Mrs. H. Y. Bernard, of Washington; Miss Rossie Bell Newton, of Griffin; Mrs. Gower Latimer, of Vidalia; Mrs. H. L. Wingate, of Pelham, and Mrs. H. C. Miller, of Helena.

M. C. Lysle, 60, Falls to Death In Montgomery

10-Story Hotel Plunge Declared Suicide by Coroner.

Milton Carter Lysle, 60, who recently spent several months in Decatur doing private traffic work, plunged to his death from the tenth story of a Montgomery (Ala.) hotel Tuesday night, little more than 24 hours after joining the Alabama Public Service Commission as director of its transportation bureau, the Associated Press reported.

Until going to Montgomery a few weeks ago, Lysle had been staying with his stepson, W. T. Quarles, of Decatur.

Coroner M. B. Kirkpatrick, of Montgomery, described the death as "a suicide," saying Lysle left a sealed letter addressed to his wife. Lysle was manager of the Memphis Freight Bureau for 18 years before coming to Decatur.

Hugh M. White, president of the Alabama Public Service Commission, said Lysle left his office in the afternoon complaining to a subordinate that he felt dizzy and wanted fresh air.

Surviving, in addition to his wife and stepson, is a stepdaughter, Mrs. H. G. Jackson, of Anderson, S. C. I. M. Patterson & Son will announce funeral plans.

Mystery Phone Calls Tortured Kin of Trunk Murder Victim

By TOM McRAE.

A tale of torture in the first degree, perpetrated by anonymous telephone calls to the family of murdered Mildred Williams, was woven into the bizarre record of facts when her body was found yesterday.

Two weeks of endless worry and wire-tight nerves was punishment meted out to relatives of the young woman after her disappearance November 21, Mrs. J. T. Neal, of 1420 Hartford avenue, her aunt, explained.

The Sunday following her disappearance on Friday brought a call to Mrs. W. B. Smith, grandmother of Mrs. Williams. The woman's voice said Mrs. Williams would be found at a Hills avenue address, Mrs. Neal explained, and "when my mother asked that the address be repeated, the information was given and then the caller hung up the telephone."

The family spent the day trying to locate the address, but there were no numbers on the avenue off Howell's Mill road, and searching in other parts of the city proved futile.

The next anonymous call went to Mrs. Neal.

"The phone would ring," Mrs. Neal said, "and when I answered the line would be open, but no one would answer my 'Hello.' You could hear what sounded like a person breathing into the mouthpiece. These calls came every day at the same time for two weeks. I got so I just hung up when no one would talk."

"During this time I received a call from a man whom I thought I recognized as an old friend. We were talking along about generalities when the man asked me to meet him downtown. I asked who he was and he hung up without giving any information."

"The nightly calls were not traced, nor was there an attempt to trace them. We did try to run down the call from the man who asked me to meet him, but it was not possible, we were told."

Mrs. Carrie Livingstone Dies; Rites Tomorrow

Mrs. Carrie Livingstone, of 1760 Indiana avenue, N. E., died late Tuesday at a private hospital. A native of Chattahoochee county, she moved to Atlanta about five years ago.

Surviving are her sister, Mrs. Frank Morgan, of Lumpkin, and several nieces and nephews. Funeral services will be held at 4:40 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Primitive Baptist church in Richland. Burial will be in Richland cemetery.

4 Army Pilots Perish When Planes Crash

Ships on Ferry Command Mission Burn.

LIMA, Ohio, March 18.—(AP)—Pilot of four Army planes perished today as their ships crashed and burned in a blinding snowstorm on farms six miles east of Lima.

The Army Air Base at Wayne county airport, Detroit, reported the ships left there on a mission for the air corps ferry command. Pilots killed, all second lieutenants, were listed at the base as: Edward H. Saunders, 26, of Lake Village, Ark., flight leader; Arnel J. Kennedy, 26, of Oklahoma City; Eugene H. Anderson, 23, of Keewauke, Ill.; Earl A. Houser, 23, of Pesotum, Ill.

The ships fell within a half-mile radius, three of them in open fields and one in a woods. All burst into flames. Two planes crashed 100 yards apart on the farm of I. H. Lutz. Rescuers said there was evidence at least one of the pilots attempted to use his parachute, but struck the ground before he could bail out.

Army Bomber Falls, Burns in W. Virginia

BARTOW, W. Va., March 18.—(AP)—One badly burned body was removed today from the wreckage of a twin-engine Army bomber on Burner mountain while officials waited for the giant aluminum shell to cool to determine whether there were others. The big, monoplane, crashed through a gap in the southeastern West Virginia mountains, came to its end about 1:30 p. m. in rock-strewn John's Camp Run within two miles of U. S. Highway 250 which runs through the little town of Frank.

East Point, Ben Hill Blackout Tonight

The blackout at East Point and the Ben Hill section will be held between 8 and 10 o'clock tonight, Paul West, East Point defense council chairman, announced yesterday. "There had been some confusion about the night test would be held," West said. The lights-out trial will give East Point's 200 graduates of the air-raid warden school their first chance to test their knowledge under war conditions. The warden received diplomas at exercises Tuesday night.

SIX-DAY SCHOOL. DANIELSVILLE, Ga., March 18.—(AP)—Madison county schools, operating six days weekly since January 19, will close May 2, three weeks earlier than formerly. Hope P. EDITOR DIES—R. B. Moore, of the Union Recorder, pioneer Milledgeville newspaper, dies at age of 73.

R. B. Moore, 73, Milledgeville Editor, Dies

Brief Illness Fatal to Son of Founder of Union Recorder.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., March 18.—(AP)—R. B. Moore, 73, former editor of the Milledgeville Union Recorder, one of Georgia's oldest weekly newspapers, died today.

Death came at the home of his son, Major Jere N. Moore. His condition had been serious only since Sunday but ill health forced his retirement several years ago. He continued, however, to write a personal column for the Union Recorder, one appearing as recently as last week.

Son of one of the founders of the Georgia Press Association, Moore was long active in that organization's activities. He became associated with his father, the late Jere N. Moore, in publishing the Union Recorder, in early manhood.

A native of Milledgeville, he had spent his entire life here, taking an active part in civic affairs, serving as a member of the board of stewards of the Methodist church and as a member of the board of trustees of Georgia Military College. He also had served as postmaster.

Survivors include four sons, Major Moore, now stationed at Camp Stewart; Captain William B. Moore, Dutch Harbor, Alaska; George B. Moore, of Valdosta; and R. B. Moore, Jr., Milledgeville.

Four sisters, Mattie Moore and Mrs. W. S. Brooks, of Milledgeville; Mrs. T. J. Cater, of Macon; and Mrs. L. B. Rhodes, of Richmond, Va., and one brother, C. L. Moore, of Milledgeville.

Funeral service will be held at 11 o'clock Thursday morning.

EDITORS NAMED TO ATTEND FUNERAL.

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. MARIETTA, Ga., March 18.—President Otis A. Brumby, of the Georgia Press Association, today appointed the following editors to serve as honorary pall-bearers at the funeral of Mr. R. B. Moore, of the Milledgeville Union Recorder, who died today:

Tom Twitty, of the Milledgeville Times; Gordon Chapman, of the Sandersville Progress; G. B. Moore, of the Sparta Isthmian; W. T. Anderson, of the Macon Telegraph and News; W. T. Bacon, of the Madisonian; Carey Williams, of the Greensboro Herald-Journal.

President Brumby deplored the death of Mr. Moore and said it was a great loss to Georgia journalism. His son, Jere N. Moore, is a former president of the Press Association.

10 Million More Men Said Needed in Plants

Need to increase American war-production manpower to 17,000,000 workers by the end of this year was pointed to yesterday by W. L. Abbott, Georgia assistant director, United States Employment Service, in a radio interview with Francis F. Shurling, director of the Office of Government Reports.

"This means," declared Abbott, "10,000,000 additional workers must be found in slightly more than nine months. This is 40,000 every day of the work week from now until New Year's."

141 Indicted in Cheese Inquiry

CHICAGO, March 18.—(AP)—Two antitrust law indictments charging 141 defendants with conspiracy to fix prices on American and brick cheese were returned today by a federal grand jury.

One indictment charged 17 corporations and 23 of their officers and agents with conspiracy to fix prices to be paid by cheese dealers to producers for brick cheese sold and shipped in interstate commerce. It said the defendants controlled the production or purchase of approximately 88 per cent of the brick cheese production in the United States, amounting annually to some 34,000,000 pounds.

It set forth that "fictitious" prices were established for brick cheese through offers, bids and sales once a week on the Wisconsin Cheese Exchange of an "infinite" mal amount" of the total brick cheese produced.

An earlier indictment charged 101 cheese dealers, processors and distributors, including 45 corporations and 56 individuals, with conspiracy to fix prices on American cheese and cheese products to both producers and consumers.

The indictment alleged prices were artificially fixed through token sales of cheese each Friday among the defendant cheese dealers at the Wisconsin Cheese Exchange, Plymouth, Wis.

Four defendants—National Dairy Products Corporation, through the Kraft Cheese Company and other subsidiaries; the Borden Company, Swift & Company, Armour & Company and their several subsidiaries—handled approximately 70 per cent of the American cheese production, or about 420,000,000 pounds; the indictment added.

Corporate defendants named include:

F. X. Baumert and Company, Inc., New York; the Borden Company, New York; Breakstone Brothers, Inc., New York; Cudahy Packing Company of Alabama, Montgomery; Cudahy Packing Company of Louisiana, Ltd., New Orleans; Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, New York; National Creamery Company, Somerville, Mass.; National Dairy Products Corporation, New York.

Individual defendants included: H. L. Bauer, vice president, Kraft, New York; Clyde E. Beardslee, vice president in charge of production, Borden, Scarsdale, N. Y.; F. A. Hart Jr., sales manager of cheese, eastern division, Kraft, New York.

Thomas H. V. McInerney, chairman of the board, National Products Corporation, Greenwich, Connecticut.

Theodore G. Montague, Greenwich, Conn., president, Borden.

general manager, southeastern division, Kraft.

D. M. Smith, Atlanta, Ga., bulk cheese sales manager, southeastern division, Kraft.

George M. Waugh Jr., Scarsdale, N. Y., executive vice president, Borden.

Army and Navy Authorities Oppose 40-Hour Changes

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP)—Demands that congress enact some type of wartime labor legislation met further administration opposition today when Army, Navy and Maritime authorities told a special senate inquiry there was no need for such action.

Lining up solidly behind President Roosevelt's stand that restrictive labor legislation would do no good at this time were Lieutenant General William S. Knudsen, War Department production chief; Admiral Emory S. Land, chief of the Maritime Commission; Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson; and Assistant Secretary of the Navy Ralph A. Bard.

One by one, the quartet of production authorities told a senate appropriations subcommittee, which decided to look into production and labor conditions, it would do no good to repeal the 40-hour week law, to enact antistrike legislation, or to pass any of the numerous proposals over which senate and house have been orating recently.

Continue Hearings.
Chairman Vinson, Democrat, Georgia, of the House Naval Committee said, however, that his group would go ahead tomorrow with hearings on a bill by him and Representative Smith, Democrat, Virginia, to repeal maximum hours legislation covering war production and to restrict profits.

As a result of the testimony and questioning by senators at a closed session, Chairman Thomas, Democrat, Oklahoma, said the senate group unanimously agreed that a definite statement of a wartime labor policy was needed but that it should come from the War Labor Board.

Thomas reported that senators and officials alike were agreed that payment at double rate on Sundays and holidays should be eliminated, but that time and one half should be paid for all overtime above 40 hours weekly.

Thomas and Senator Maybank, Democrat, South Carolina, complained that some workers took time off during the regular pay rate period in order to earn more at the higher Sunday-holiday rate without increasing total production. Senators said there also were complaints that some workers were holding down production.

Proposal Opposed.
In the senate chamber, Senator Lee, Democrat, Oklahoma, suggested that Donald M. Nelson, War Production Board chairman, cancel profits on war contracts as a means of halting strikes and speeding production. He contended that elimination of profits would end a "contest between management and labor over profits."

All four officials testifying before the committee opposed any proposal for drafting or regimenting labor, according to an edited transcript of the secret testimony made available later.

Knudsen said that drafting labor "won't work in this country; it might in others," when Senator Overton, Democrat, Louisiana, asked about suggestions that congress place labor in a "strait-jacket for the duration of the war."

Land also opposed the regimentation of labor or antistrike legislation at this time, noting that "our labor leaders are playing ball" and that drastic legislation might bring a "recalcitrant, Bolshevik feeling—to hell with it" that would seriously interfere with production.

NAVY'S BUSY LITTLE "SEABEES"—This is the insignia designed for the "Construction Battalion," the Navy Department has announced. The coined name is a phonetic rendering of the initial letters "C. B." The seagoing bee has all hands busily engaged with the tools of naval construction.

Milk Inspector Shows 'Proof' In Australia Of Dirty Milk Area Blasted

requirements with 99 now engaged in meeting the new standards.

Nine Samples Taken.
In one instance, Day's records showed nine samples of one dairy had been taken in 1941 and only two were within the law at that time, 50,000 bacterial count per cubic centimeter. The others ranged from 60,000 to 125,000.

Feed was stored in the milking barns and when taken to the feed bins, dust was strewn in the air to settle in the milk.

There were no toilet facilities for Negro helpers, and screens were ineffective, leaving the barn open to flies and other insects. No means for sterilizing equipment was provided. Milking utensils were on the floor and no racks were provided. Udders of cows must be washed with a chlorine solution, but there was no chlorine. The only place in which an attendant could wash his hands was in the same basins in which milk equipment was washed.

Diluted 30 Per Cent.
Another producer's sample showed that it was diluted 30 per cent by water.

In still another record, it was shown the milk had been skimmed and sold for whole milk.

Georgia's Department of Agriculture objects to having dairy farmers driven out of business because of fantastic whims of individual city milk inspectors, Linder said yesterday.

"I'm glad to see this dairy farm issue brought out into the open," said Linder, "because a lot of business that's going on right now needs clarifying. If the whole problem is brought out, we might get something accomplished."

The state department, Linder insisted, is not opposed to any regulated health standards set up by the city for the protection of its citizens.

"I understand—just as the vast majority of farmers understand—that decent health standards must be maintained, not only for the protection of the public, but for the protection of the honest farmer," Linder said.

Favors Sticking to Code.
"I do object, though, when I see a conscientious farmer told he cannot sell milk in Atlanta, merely because some individual city inspector, on his own initiative, alone, sets down regulations that no farmer can afford to maintain. I believe the city health inspectors should adhere strictly to whatever code is adopted under the law."

"I have known of cases where farmers have been told to make certain improvements in their barns. They made these improvements as directed. Then, I know they have been told, after undergoing all that expense, that the improvements they made were all wrong."

"I know of a farmer who was told to put two windows in one side of his dairy barn. After putting them in, he was told by the inspector the windows should have been put in the other side."

"I know of a farmer who was told to build a four-foot trough in his milking shed. He built the four-foot trough and then was told it should have been four and a half feet. He'd have to tear it all out."

"I don't believe in driving a man out of business because an inspector is unreasonable and is merely setting up his own rules."

"I want to see Georgia produce good, clean, healthful milk so that it won't be necessary to import milk from other states."

"This could be accomplished if the city would only co-operate."

"I believe this present discussion is the best way to clear up the whole situation."

When We Start We'll Roll, Says MacArthur Aid

General Brett Confident Australia Will Hold Against Japs.

MELBOURNE, March 18.—(AP) Lieutenant General George H. Brett, United Nations deputy commander under General Douglas MacArthur, said today that "when we start rolling we shall keep on rolling," and declared that "with 100 of our flyers we can take care of any 200 Japs."

The general quickly added: "I say this without underestimating the Japs. But our equipment is better than theirs and our men have been showing a lot more ability and initiative."

Brett was confident that Australia could be held against the Japanese.

"They (the Australians) may have to take a little drubbing," he said. "So did England. But England is still there."

"When we start rolling we shall keep on rolling. Nothing within reason has been refused from Washington. We are giving Australia machines as rapidly as we can get them."

Unified Control.
The wiry, 56-year-old airman whose procurement experiences date from World War days, emphasized the importance of American aircraft and standardized equipment, and said the whole idea in Australia was "unified control and complete pooling," and the dispersal of aircraft in a depth system.

In Java our men brought down better than three planes to one in the air," he said in praising the American pilots.

"Our airmen were accomplishing far beyond what was expected of them. They seemed to feel they were on display and had to outdo themselves despite extreme handicaps."

"There was no such thing as an eight-hour day. Those boys drove themselves to the very limit. Our doctors actually had to pull some of them off the planes."

"They took off daily without knowing what was ahead and, worse still, not knowing what would happen upon their return. The Japs had a way of following in and attacking as they landed."

Planes Bog Down.
"If they got off the Java runways the plane wheels would bog down in Java's soft earth. Often they had to use landing fields under four inches of water."

"The weather was often terrible. Sometimes the boys would take off at midnight—and, incidentally, the Japs don't seem to like night flying much—and they would return two hours later without reaching their objective. They had been battling storms all that time."

"We lost three B-17s just east of Soerabaja simply because they couldn't find landing fields and had to sit down in island rice paddies."

The general said there were ample crews now available in Australia for the American planes, and that all possible Japanese "jumping off places for invasion are being watched."

Uncle Sam Really Moves Boys Around

BRISBANE, Australia, March 18.—(AP)—Shortly before boarding a transport for Australia, Sergeant Robert C. Selbert, recently of Selfridge Field, Mich., got a letter from his mother in Webster Groves, Mo., saying his younger brother, Richard, had enlisted at St. Louis and had been sent to Sheppard Field, Texas.

A day at sea and strolling the deck, Robert ran into the equally astounded Private Richard.

No New Auto Tags Allowed For Duration

20,000 Tons of Metal To Be Saved by WPB Order.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP) The 1942 automobile license plates, dog tags, and peddlers' licenses are going to have to last for the duration, the War Production Board notified states, cities and counties today.

In an order aimed at conserving annually an estimated 20,000 tons of sheet steel stamped for use on motor vehicles—and then nailed to a garage wall—the WPB prohibited the issuance of new metal plates except to new licenses, or to replace lost ones.

Instead, small metal "date tabs" or strips not more than four square inches in size, will be attached to the old plates to bring them up to date. Altogether, WPB will permit only 10 per cent of the metal used in the corresponding license year ending before July 1, 1942, for motor vehicle plates.

First Things First

It is never pleasant to be forced to disagree with completely sincere and idealistic persons. Yet, in the present world situation it is impossible to see eye to eye with those worthy individuals who would devote much time and effort to discussion of and planning for the world we want to form after the war is won.

Their aspirations are excellent, but the subject to which they would divert attention is not of primary importance now. There is only one objective today, one objective that calls for the complete effort and attention of every American. That is the winning of the war.

First things must come first. It is useless to talk about the kind of world we hope to create after the war until we have made certain that we, the Allied Nations, shall win the war. If we do not win, we shall have nothing to say about the post-war world in which we shall, nevertheless, be forced to live.

There is, at this time, no real certainty that we shall be the victors in the world struggle. Frank appraisal of the situation compels the honest admission that things, so far, have gone badly for our side. Despite the magnificent fight put up by the Russians, the world picture of today is dark for the Allied Nations. We, in truth, are fighting with our backs to the wall and until we can begin successful offensives against the enemy, we are on the losing side.

President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill, at their historic conference at sea, drew up the broad outlines of the future for which we fight. This is the Atlantic Charter. That document is enough. It sets up the goal for which we strive. Any elaboration upon it at this time is unwise and wasted effort.

One good shell is immeasurably greater today in its contribution to a better world than all the discussion and planning that groups or individuals can indulge in for the future. One fully equipped soldier, facing the enemy, is more vital to our own future and the future of all mankind than all the theories that can be advanced by the best intentioned of idealistic debaters.

There are, too, other things which some factions of the American population appear to regard as of primary importance. Things which, like plans for post-war social reconstruction, are out of place and obstructive today.

Business profits. Labor's "gains." The New Deal. Maximum work hours. Higher wages. Agricultural prosperity. Social security. Political advantage.

All important in normal times, to be sure. But of utter unimportance, compared to the one major factor, the winning of the war.

Without victory, there will be, for us, for all of us, no business profits, no organized labor. There will be no New Deal, but only the Axis "New Order." Work hours will know no limit and wages will be only that pittance necessary to maintain life. Farm products will be taken by the victorious Axis for no price at all, or at best only the price they choose to pay. There will be no security in any form and the only political advantage will be that of traitorous Quislings.

If we would save our country and our national life, we must forget the extraneous matters of no importance and devote all our thought, all our effort, all our property and all our lives to the one great, first cause, Victory. Let us put the first thing first and the other goals we seek will ultimately be gained.

War Hindrances in Atlanta

The Atlanta Junior Chamber of Commerce, in a resolution addressed to the Mayor and General Council, collectively and individually, exposes a condition in regard to war industries in Atlanta which is little less than shocking.

It is an acknowledged fact that the machines in our war production plants must be kept in continuous operation for 24 hours a day, seven days a week. In short, the machines must work 168 hours each week, regardless of the work hours of the men and women who operate them.

Donald Nelson, leader of the national war production effort, has called for that 168-hour week for all machines in the war factories.

Yet, because of a local city ordinance, war production industries in Atlanta have been refused permits to operate on Sundays! Because the city fathers are so shortsighted, they cannot grasp the urgency of the national peril, they arbitrarily force the closing down of essential war plants, in this community, for 24 hours out of each week.

Every such delay in production means prolongation of the war and death for hundreds of American youths who, otherwise, would not have to die.

Every such delay makes more hazardous our national survival and, with it, our opportunity to observe the Sabbaths of the future.

There is no threat to welfare of employees. It is the machines only which must operate all the time. All employees can be given ample time of leisure for rest, recreation and worship, thus fulfilling the essential purposes of the Sabbath principle.

Christ Himself taught that a man should rescue his ox that has fallen into a ditch on the Sabbath day. Certainly the national safety has fallen into a most parlous and deep ditch, a ditch of world-wide proportions.

Every genuine, legitimate war industry in Atlanta or the surrounding community must be allowed to keep its machinery running every hour, day and night, of every day in the year. If permits are needed to avoid technical violation of any Sabbath observance law, those permits should be forthcoming without delay or argument.

We can save our nation and all its Sabbaths only by all-out, continuous operation of the war factories.

—ALTOGETHER!—FOR VICTORY!—

Comes the time for circuses and sideshows, and we're wondering about the India rubber man. Will he be drafted by the Army or confiscated by Henderson?

—ALTOGETHER!—FOR VICTORY!—

It would be grim if, one of these days, we asked in our light-hearted way, "what's cooking?" and it turned out to be us.

—ALTOGETHER!—FOR VICTORY!—

R. B. Moore

A veteran of Georgia weekly journalism has passed on, to join many an old friend of the Fourth Estate in a world where nobody writes letters to the editor complaining that he printed the wrong initials or address.

R. B. Moore, 73, editor of the Milledgeville Union-Recorder, died yesterday, after a brief illness. He was the father of Jere N. Moore, now a major in the Army, a former president of the Georgia Press Association. Another son is Captain William B. Moore, now stationed in Alaska.

Mr. Moore had been a newspaperman all his life—almost since childhood. He succeeded his father as head of the Union-Recorder, believed to be the oldest weekly newspaper in Georgia. He was an outstanding citizen of Milledgeville and was postmaster through the first Wilson administration.

With the passing of R. B. Moore Milledgeville has lost one of her most valuable citizens. But even with Major Jere Moore, who had been the active head of the paper for years, serving his country elsewhere, the Union-Recorder will carry on. Its discontinuance cannot easily be imagined.

Georgia Editors Say:

SCHEME BACKFIRES

(From The Newnan Herald.)

Around and about last week we could hear a definite sound of backfiring from that newest scheme of the state political machine—the announced intention of "adjoining" politics because of the war, and the subtly veiled hint that perhaps it might even be a good idea to cancel the state primary this year.

The idea has not taken hold; it is not being received favorably at all, even among those who in former times have been admittedly friends of the administration. The whole plan, in fact, is being flung back into the faces of its authors with surprising alacrity.

Ellis Arnall has given the answer to the question of what to do with politics this year. The state machine is to be adjourned—not politics. And we do not mean that the same "politics" as they are defined by actions of the present administration are to be continued. Far from it. Such political doings must be cleaned out for all time. The word "politics" can have more than one meaning, more than the connotation commonly given it. It can stand for good, clean, efficient government, too. And that's what it will stand for if the voters of Georgia wake up to the fact that they will have an opportunity this year to set up a clean and honorable and intelligent administration.

WASHINGTON PARADE

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

MAY BE TURNING POINT

WASHINGTON, March 18.—General MacArthur's arrival in Australia, plus the earlier War Department announcement that thousands of American troops have already preceded him there, should mark a turning point in the battle of the Pacific.

Henceforth, there may be better tidings. Certainly it means the Japs will have no push-over if they decide to make an assault on this, the last remaining major foothold of the United Nations in the South Pacific.

It is too early to say yet, but in some quarters the suggestion is heard that the presence of General MacArthur as generalissimo of the Allied command in the area may cause the Japanese to bypass Australia for another objective. They learned to develop a healthy respect for him at Bataan. Outnumbered there more than 10 to 1, he stopped them cold with his careful, precise way of doing things.

The defender of Bataan is that kind of a soldier—precise and calculating. If he has a shorting of hair for the dramatic, he never allows it to take him beyond the realm of practicality. It was a dramatic thing he did in ordering his hard-pressed troops in the Philippines to counterattack recently. The fact that the attack gained five miles after taking the Japanese unawares made it a practical move.

RARE COMBINATION A first-honor graduate at West Point, he is a rare combination of the methodical mind and a first-class fighting man. In the last World War he won practically every medal the Allies had to offer—some 23 of them. He won them the hard way, leading his men in action in an exhibition of physical courage that was unsurpassed.

Such is the man the Japs now have facing them in Australia. The number of men under his new command is of necessity a military secret of the first order. Some computations place the number of Americans alone at 250,000. If this is true, there must be an equal force of Australians and British imperials. Convoys have been headed in that direction ever since Pearl Harbor—great fleets of them. When it was found too late to get them into Singapore and Java, they were deployed to Australia.

BASE WE MUST HOLD Great events may be in the making here. If the Japs try to take Australia and fail, it will be the turning point in the battle of the Pacific. If they decide to bypass it for an attack on India, the forces we have accumulated there will be used for counter-blows against what Japan has already conquered. It is a base of operations that we must hold under all conditions, if possible.

That is why the President ordered General MacArthur to relinquish his command in the Philippines and move southward to higher responsibilities. He is too valuable a soldier to be lost in the Philippines anyway. He is too valuable a leader to be lost in the defense he put up at Bataan gave him an appeal that none of the other commanders in the area held. One by one, the Australians had seen Hongkong, Malaya, Singapore and Java fall.

Only Bataan under MacArthur stood up. The Australians wanted the assurance that his presence carried. With him in charge, they would feel better about the situation.

But whether the Australians had requested it or not, the chances are the President would have ordered the general away from the Philippines anyway. He is too valuable a soldier to be lost in what is now regarded as a futile mission. Sooner or later the Philippines, it seems, must be abandoned. It would have been a pity to sacrifice MacArthur in the fall.

LESSON TO LEARN One lesson to be gained from the transfer is the futility of civilians and congress trying to run the war. General MacArthur was ordered to his new command on February 22. He was in the Philippines three weeks since that date, a widespread clamor has come up from the country for just such a move. The administration and the President were being roundly criticized for not ordering him away.

Now it develops, of course, that the orders had been issued all the while. They were delayed in execution by General MacArthur's own request. He wanted time to complete preparations for leaving everything at Bataan in good military order.

It all seems to show that the President and the administration can be relied on to do the right thing at the right time without a lot of clamor from the politicians or others who may think they have better ideas as to how to run the war.

Meantime, the arrival of MacArthur in Australia has been a heartening development, both here and abroad. We will be looking for better things out there in the future.

Roving Reporter

By ERNIE PYLE.

Editor's Note: Westbrook Pegler is on vacation. In his absence the Ernie Pyle column, the "Roving Reporter," will be the place of "Fair Enough."

Call on Millers LAGUNA BEACH, March 18.—On the way up the coast I stopped past LaJolla to see Max and Margaret Miller. My periodic knockings at the Miller door have become sort of a tradition, so now one of them just opens the door and calls to the other, "Here he is again."

Max Miller, as you well know, writes books. He is on his fourteenth now, if I have kept count correctly. He had just finished the first draft of his newest one, and felt so relieved over it he decided to take a vacation and ride up to Los Angeles with me.

We put the top down and came ripping up the highway in our camel's hair coats and with the sun beating down on our balding heads, and we were the cynosure of all eyes, as Shakespeare would say.

On the way up we told spinach jokes, and finally got around to the more serious question of what each of us was going to do, personally, about the war in lieu of continuing to write our respective brands of deathless literature.

It would up that we were both in a quandary, didn't know what we should do or wanted to do, probably couldn't do if we tried, and got exactly nowhere with our problem. "I thought maybe you'd have an answer," Max said. "But I guess it's the halt leading the blind."

At any rate, neither of us can see how writing a thousand words a day—even such beautiful words as ours—can destroy any Japanese.

Margaret Miller has caught the writing habit, too, and has recently composed what is doubtless an epic, on sea life. It is a book for children. It isn't out yet, but will be very soon.

Also, Margaret not long ago sneaked over on Max's magazine piece on the trials and tribulations of being an author's wife. Her title for it was:

"It's Bitter Than Working in a Fish Cannery."

Max still feels like spanking her. It being a literary day, we stopped in another author—John Weld by name. We stayed a couple of hours and all praised each other to the skies. It was wonderful.

John Weld writes semi-historical novels. So far he is little known, but he is a painstaking craftsman with a facility for words and a tenaciousness about research—he devotes as long as two years to a book—and I don't doubt that some day his name will carry great respect.

He and his wife, Katie, live in one of the most spectacular houses you ever saw. It is a small cottage perched on a shelf halfway down the high, perpendicular cliff that rises smack out of the Pacific ocean.

You can't even see their house till you walk to the edge of the precipice and peek over. Then you look right down upon its roof. You descend by a steep stairway. You walk in the back door, through the house, and look out the front windows. And from there you look straight down into the ocean, far below you; and you look at ocean northward, and southward, and westward.

The ocean is the highway that passes their front window, but the traffic on their highway is much more interesting than on any course for wheels and tires.

Last week on the rocks below their window a huge turtle lay for hours, a gigantic fellow that must have weighed a ton. Such a turtle is almost unknown in these parts.

Two White Whales Yesterday they saw two white whales. And as Katie Weld says, "I always thought Moby Dick was the only white whale that ever existed."

Occasionally they're thrilled by a procession of warships and submarines; and when Los Angeles puts on its anti-aircraft fireworks they can see it better than the people in Los Angeles; and one day John Weld swears he saw a regular old-fashioned sea monster swimming past, although Katie laughs at him.

They recently picked up part of a rudder from a wrecked ship on their beach. And just a few days ago a can of Navy paint came floating intact to their threshold.

A quart can, in perfect shape. So now the Weld back door and porch—which have wanted painting for many a month—are a nice new battleship gray.

My book looks wonderful to a lot of people. Other jobs look wonderful to me. The next pasture is always greener. I envy the Welds and their hidden house by the side of the vastest road on earth.

Coming out of San Diego on this trip I picked up a sailor who had been on there 24 hours leave and was headed for his station back up the coast.

Dudley Glass

Day or two ago I had a chat with N. D. Dudley, who helped found in Atlanta 20 years ago, the order of Ahepa. He was its first national president. Ahepa is composed of naturalized Greeks or those who declare their intentions of becoming citizens. It takes in almost all the Greek-Americans in the country.

Our talk started me to thinking about the Hellenic people I know in Atlanta and those I don't know, scattered all over the country. And it came to me that a newspaper reader runs across mighty few Greek names in crime news—gangster wars and all that.

Gangster wars and various crime news contains a lot of names that sound like the "Irish" on a Notre Dame football squad. Hard to pronounce and harder to spell. Gangster stories have a lot of Italian names and Sicilian names. But I recall few names from Scandinavia, only a few French. And—be fair—extremely few German. The Nordics don't go in for crime—except in the name of patriotism.

It is true that a great proportion of liquor stores in Atlanta are conducted by Greeks—from a look at the license register. But why not? Retailing of liquor is a perfectly legitimate trade under national, state and municipal license. It is a clean business, except in the opinion of prohibitionists. About the only place in Georgia where you can legally take a drink is in a liquor store. You can imbibe one at a drugstore table, if the manager doesn't object, or in a hotel lobby or on a street corner. Perhaps even in church. I don't know the technicalities of the law. But not in a liquor store. The manager wouldn't even pull a cork for you. Dealing in whisky is no reflection on the Greek character.

I have no statistics on hand but, despite all the talk about "furriners," I believe the Greeks in America stack up about 98 per cent good citizens.

'Boating Accident'

St. Patrick's Day brought up a street corner discussion of what the Irish—de Valera's Free Irish—are doing in this war. Eire had cut loose from English rule and the traditional hatred of Britain still burns, according to the magazines. So, would a true Irishman fight for England?

The Chicago Sun ran a story about that, which I take the liberty to quote: "Funny people, the Irish! They'll tell you more peculiar, difficult stories with a straight face than any other men on the face of this earth. If you take the Irish-born, and add to them the London-Irish, the Liverpool-Irish, the Manchester-Irish, Glasgow-Irish, and the Edinburgh-Irish, why you'll find more than a million of them serving today in the Armies of England; and not a few in command, from corps down to battalions.

"But an Irish soldier on leave must not wear Britain's uniform.

I found

the way to amazing new pep... vitality...
better looks!

A truly marvelous change can be brought about by overcoming miserable digestive complaints, under-weight, sluggishness, loss of appetite—all by two important steps—

● Restore vital digestive juices in the stomach... ● Enlarge your body with rich, red blood. Here's how!

If you are one of those unfortunate who have worked under a strain, failed to eat the proper food, have been vexed by overeating, worries, or have suffered with colds, the flu, or other illness... yet have no organic trouble or focal infection... and your red-blood-cells have become reduced in vitality and number... if your stomach digestion refuses to work properly, then here is what should help you!

S.S.S. Tonic is especially designed to build up blood strength when deficient... to revive and stimulate those stomach juices which digest the food so your body can make proper use of it in rebuilding worn-out tissue. These two important results enable you to enjoy the food you do eat... to make use of it. Nature intended. Thus you may get new vitality... pep... become animated... more attractive!

Greeks in America; Mighty Little Trouble From Them

He can fight the Battle of Dunkirk, or First Libya all over again in the Shelbourne hotel in Dublin, and be cheered mightily; and if someone were to say, sort of looking for an argument, "Were ye there, Shamus, by any chance?"—then the hero will wink his eye prodigiously and reply: "Ah, no. Catch me! But I heard a grand account from a sailor when I was taking the cattle to Liverpool! The amenities have been observed, everything is all right and very friendly."

"Proof of that is the newest Irish story, that of the Irish Times reporter who came gallantly out of the sinking of a British battleship. Said the lad's newspaper: "His friends will be glad to know that he is alive and well after being involved in a boating accident."

In Spite of Care

Businessman in the Healey building told me the champion income tax hard luck story I've heard.

Securing the procrastinators who worked all day last Monday to get their returns in before midnight, he prepared his returns late in February, having his lawyer check them. He signed before a notary, drew a check for the full amount, attached it to his returns, addressed the envelope properly. But he thought he might just as well put off reducing his bank balance, so he wouldn't mail the letter until the last day.

He found it yesterday, under other papers in his desk basket—two days after the deadline.

I've heard several folk express fear that tire conservation will prevent their making their annual vacation trips to St. Simons or Daytona or whatever is their favorite resort.

But they're not half so much worried as are the people at summer resorts who make their living out of visitors. They see a dull season ahead.

Brunswick News says St. Simons folk are pessimists. They say 90 per cent of visitors arrive by automobile. There is train service, but the Atlanta-Brunswick Pullman has been discontinued. Besides, there's no fun at a summer resort without a car.

Peddler Finds $1,500 Check And Returns It

Minister Lost It On Way To Make Deposit.

A vagrant wind which blew down Alabama street Tuesday afternoon whipped a check for $1,500 into the hands of a crippled street corner peddler—but his own honesty whipped it right out again.

I. J. Walker, who sells razor blades and shoe laces at the southwest corner of Decatur and Pryor, found a check for $1,500 as he walked along Alabama street near Pryor Tuesday afternoon. The Rev. Parks Warnock, assistant pastor of the Druid Hills Baptist church, had lost it on the way to the bank to deposit it to the church's account. Before he could call the church office and report his loss, Walker had called and reported he had found it.

"I knew it wasn't mine and it didn't get me excited," Walker said. He would not even admit to a momentary desire to keep the check. "I make enough to support myself. Why should I want what belongs to somebody else?"

Good Morning

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

"LET'S KEEP FAITH."

John C. Sheffield, a lawyer, living at Helena, Ark., and an overseas soldier for Uncle Sam in the first World War, wrote a letter to the editor of the Memphis Commercial Appeal the other day, which the editor regarded as worthy of the position as the leading editorial of February 28, 1942. The editor wrote this introductory line for Mr. Sheffield's letter-editorial: "A document every thinking citizen of these United States should read and ponder." Mr. Sheffield's letter:

"My only son was born while I was in France during the first World War. Today he is a member of the Marine Corps. He sailed from California the first of January, and we have heard nothing from him since. We are anxious about him. Thousands of other parents are like us.

"The President says we do not have enough ships to send supplies to our troops, and that we must build ships in a hurry. Even as he spoke several hundred shipbuilders refused to work on Washington's birthday because they were not paid double time.

"How can fathers and mothers of boys who are in the danger zones and who are being called upon to sacrifice their lives feel any 'surge' of unity when the President and the congress permit a bunch of shipbuilders and munition workers to quit when they get good and ready?

"Do our boys at the front get overtime and double time in the fox holes of the Philippines? Do our sons who are giving their lives to protect the jobs of these and others like them quit on holidays?"

"One of my friends, who is a trained mechanic, with a family to support, went to get a job in a munition plant. Every day we hear on the radio and read in the newspapers that such men are needed to turn out munitions for our soldiers, sailors, and marines. But this man was refused a job until he got a union card. He could not get a union card because he did not have the money to buy one.

"Is it the idea of our government it is more important to preserve labor unions than it is to preserve the American union? Why can't a free-born American citizen get a job in a plant where the government needs workers without having to pay tribute to a high-power labor leader? If our sons are drafted to give their lives for their country, why should not labor and capital be drafted to supply them with munitions of war? Why should congress, which has the power to make laws, be so tender of the regard for labor and management who work and prosper in safety while having an utter disregard for the lives of our boys at the front?

"We don't like it, and we don't mind saying so out loud. Maybe it is time we were electing some senators and congressmen who will crack down and compel capital and labor to get into this war. And come to think of it, this is election year, and we might as well get busy while we have the time and opportunity." So say we, all, brother!

F.D.R. Would Boost War Spending Above 160 Billions

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP)—President Roosevelt asked congress today to appropriate more than $17,000,000,000 for the Army, which would raise the allocations for defense and the war to the stupendous total of $160,410,259,866 in less than two years.

He asked that $8,515,861,251 be made available to the Army Air Corps but it was learned that only about half of that would be for planes. The rest would be used for parts, supplies and other necessities.

The recommendations covered every major War Department activity but were so barren of detail that appropriations committee members will know nothing of the program until officials appear to explain them behind closed doors.

tabulation showed that appropriations, contract authorizations and recommendations for the defense and war program since June 30, 1940, totaled $142,005,354,613 on February 12. Besides today's request, the President has asked $825,594,000 additional for the Navy.

Principal items in Mr. Roosevelt's request today, in addition to the Air Corps fund, were:

For construction of buildings, utilities and appurtenances at military posts, $4,454,775,033.
For military construction and defense installations, $866,165,000.
For Army transportation, $817,912,000.
For signal service, $748,149,000.
For ordnance service and supplies, $591,698,443.
Pay for the Army and its specialist corps, $327,331,562.

Dalton To Buy Big Tract for New Air Field

City Officials Approve Fund for 375-Acre Tract.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. DALTON, Ga., March 18.—Dalton city officials have approved the purchase of a 375-acre tract of land on the Pine Grove road, six miles southeast of the city for the development of an airport, appropriating $11,880 for the project.

Site for the new airport has been approved by the Civil Aeronautics Authority and work on clearing the land and preparing it for use is to begin this week and will be rushed to completion. Dalton's old airport, located on the Cleveland highway near the city limits, will be sold as soon as the new and larger one can be completed.

The Chamber of Commerce through its aviation committee, composed of Fred F. Starr, Wm. L. Manton, Dr. Lloyd Wood, O. R. Hardin, Alfred Jones, Hoyt Hamby and Henry W. Nevin, has been working to obtain adequate airport facilities for Dalton for the past several months.

MORE FUEL ON THE VICTORY FIRE—Doctors at the war sessions here yesterday were enthusiastic about the transfer of General MacArthur to Australia, as you can see. Left to right are: Captain Frederick R. Hook, of the Navy; Dr. James E. Paullin, Atlanta member of the directing board, central procurement and assignment service of the college; Colonel Hugh J. Morgan, of the Army, and Dr. Frank K. Boland, Atlanta member of the college's Board of Governors.

Keep Well and Help Win War; Doctors Scarce, Parley Reveals

By AL SHARP.

It was all right for Junior to eat green apples and turn up with a stomachache a couple of years ago.

That was strictly between Junior and his stomach, which may or may not have boasted castron insulatic.

But now the nation is at war, and it even affects Junior and his well-known tendency to gulp green apples.

The reason, of course, is that physicians and surgeons have more to do than to come out to see about the ailing Junior.

In fact, the shortage of doctors caused by the large numbers necessary for the armed forces will leave fewer available for civilians.

So keeping Junior from eating the apples or having the stomachache or anything else, for that matter, is a patriotic duty. And that includes Mama and Papa and Sister, too.

Doctors To Be Scarce. None of the speakers at the war sessions of Georgia and Alabama doctors here yesterday said just that. The sessions, sponsored by the American College of Surgeons and held at the Biltmore hotel, was devoted to more dignified discussions of ways and means to victory.

However, it is no deep secret that doctors are going to be scarce and that the fewer calls for attention the better off everyone will be.

Dr. Burt A. Dyer, who recently came here as regional medical officer for the Fourth Civilian Defense region, United States Office of Civilian Defense, did touch on the part civilians can play in this respect.

"We are establishing blood banks, providing for inoculations and other means of protecting civilians," Dr. Dyer said. "That calls for co-ordination of physicians and surgeons in getting everything done."

"It is going to be harder to get a doctor, especially for those among the low income groups," Dr. Dyer pointed out.

Dr. Dyer spoke on "The Doctor and the Hospital in Civilian Defense."

Officers on Program. Colonel Hugh J. Morgan, of the Army Medical Corps, Washington, and Captain Frederick R. Hook, of the United States Naval Hospital, Washington, spoke on the organization and function of the armed forces' medical departments.

Other speakers were: Dr. Claude Coleman, of the Medical College of Virginia; Dr. Daniel C. Elkin, of Emory; Dr. James E. Paullin, Atlanta; Dr. James M. Mason, Birmingham; Dr. Thomas P. Goodwyn, Atlanta; Dr. Lloyd Noland, Fairfield, Ala.; Dr. John D. Martin Jr., of Emory.

Colonel Morgan and Captain Hook are being sent to 26 war sessions throughout the nation to explain duties of physicians and surgeons in war.

Frank H. Reynolds To Seek Mayor's Post

A four-cornered race was assured yesterday when Alderman Frank H. Reynolds formally notified Mayor Lyle that he would be a candidate for the unexpired term of Roy LeCraw, resigned mayor.

Previously Dewey Johnson, president of the Georgia Federation of Labor; Councilman John A. White, chairman of council's finance committee, and James R. Buchanan, retired businessman and former city alderman, had qualified for the contest to be held May 27.

Mrs. Fannie Maddox Succumbs at Home

Mrs. Fannie Maddox, of 627 State street, N. W., died yesterday at her residence. She had lived in Atlanta all her life and was a member of the Brown Memorial Baptist church.

Surviving are her step-mother, Mrs. N. M. Echols; three daughters, Mrs. A. R. Humphries, Mrs. Ralph Gann, of Mableton, and Mrs. Pete Osborne; three sons, E. G. Maddox, of Birmingham, and A. J. Maddox; five sisters, Mrs. C. C. Cobb, Mrs. J. M. Powell, Mrs. C. C. Rogers and Mrs. D. M. Clodfelder, and five brothers, A. M. Echols, of Birmingham; L. F. Echols, of Douglasville, and W. B. R. D. and J. B. Echols; and several grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Henry M. Blanchard will announce funeral plans.

Earl of Portsmouth's Son Joins U. S. Air Corps

SHERIDAN, Wyo., March 18.—(AP)—Oliver M. Wallop, rancher, pilot and youngest son of the Earl of Portsmouth, has enlisted in the United States Army Air Corps as a private.

He left today to be inducted at Fort Des Moines, Iowa. Wallop was born here and is an American citizen.

Dinner Meeting To Mark Close Of Fund's Year

Gathering To Take Place on March 24 at Athletic Club.

The greatest opportunity for service in the history of Community Fund lies immediately ahead, G. K. Selden, chairman of the board of trustees, said yesterday in announcing the 18th annual meeting of the Fund to be held Tuesday, March 24, at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

The meeting closes a fiscal year that saw a great expansion of the work of 34 member agencies, he said. A total of 59,966 people, of whom almost 25,000 were children, were served by the Fund agencies during 1941.

Trustees of the Fund, board members of the 34 agencies and representatives of contributors from all walks of life will attend the meeting. The annual meeting is open to the public, each person who attends paying for his own dinner.

Report Printed Free.

Even the annual report has been printed without cost to the Fund and will be presented at the meeting by Boyce M. Edens, director-secretary.

Selden said the number of persons served by the agencies in the Fund was the largest since 1941. "Services were more varied," he pointed out, "because many of the agencies are directly involved in wartime activities."

Principal emphasis at the meeting will be on the immediate future. Atlanta is a key point in the nation's war effort and must have well-planned, well-financed social welfare agencies to carry on essential family and child care, health and recreation services, as well as to meet new needs arising from national emergency.

Plan Tribute to Rich. The responsibility of individual citizens to do their part in making such a program possible will be discussed by Carlyle Fraser and Dr. Herman L. Turner. These speeches will climax the meeting. They will follow the annual business session at which new officers and trustees will be named to guide the Fund in 1942.

A feature of the meeting will be a tribute to Richard H. Rich, general chairman of the annual solicitation last fall, when the largest amount in the history of the Fund was subscribed.

The meeting, which begins at 7 o'clock, is open to the public, each person who attends paying for his own dinner. Tickets are available for agency board members from agency executives.

No Jury Is Required

For Valdosta Court

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. VALDOSTA, Ga., March 18.—When Judge Bascom Deaver, of the United States court, sounding the docket here Monday on the opening of the March term for the Valdosta division, it was found no jury was needed for the entire criminal docket.

All defendants either indicated they would plead guilty or submit their cases solely to Judge Deaver for a verdict. The jury was discharged for the week. However, the jury for the second week, on the civil side of the docket, will have an ample amount to do in hearing testimony and arguments in a number of heavy suits scheduled for the week.

WHAT ONE FINANCE COMPANY IS DOING FOR WAR-TIME INDUSTRY

Industry must organize promptly all available facilities—manpower, plant, machinery, material and money—to win the war.

For thirty years we have been extending financial assistance to American industries and are now especially desirous of assisting those established mills, manufacturers and wholesalers engaged in or seeking to engage in war-time production. We have Invested Capital of $66,000,000. Resources of $450,000,000, and during 1941 financed over $1,000,000,000 of receivables for our customers.

If your present financial arrangements are inadequate or unsatisfactory, possibly we can help you. We have no "ready made" financing plan to submit, but we should like to consider your problem with you and then try to adjust a plan to meet your requirements. We eliminate much of the red-tape and time-lag usually involved in financing and we do not interfere with the management of your business.

Our financing facilities are available to supply established concerns with sufficient cash or credit to permit their acceptance of Government contracts and to speed up production under such existing contracts. We supply working capital at reasonable rates upon current open accounts and inventories and for the purchase of machinery. We will also finance the enlargement of plant and equipment facilities under "Certificates of Necessity" issued by the Government.

We will purchase your current open accounts, including those for war material, without notification to your customers—and limit your risk of credit loss thereon—and permit credits and collections to be handled by you as usual. Our "Factoring" subsidiaries will finance such receivables with notification to your customers and relieve you of all credit, collection and accounting expense and all risk of credit loss.

U. S. Increasing U-Boat Patrol, Knox Declares

Strong Measures Taken To Protect Coast, Says Navy Secretary.

NEW YORK, March 18.—(AP)—In an optimistic mood, Secretary of Navy Knox announced today that the Navy was sharply increasing its counter measures against Axis submarines attacking American vessels off the east coast.

"A considerable increase in the antisubmarine patrol fleet will be made in 60 days," he said. "Just as rapidly as possible, the surface patrol is being augmented by air forces."

Strong measures were being taken, too, he said, to protect American harbors and waterfront facilities.

Although he declined to give exact figures, Knox said the "percentage of ships lost compared to the number that got through safely is extremely small." He disclosed that only five ships of more than 1,000 tons followed a naval sea lane from New York to southern ports had been sunk.

Knox, who came here with Vice Admiral Russell R. Waesche, of the Coast Guard, to inspect New York's naval and harbor installations and the burned-out Normandie, said Rear Admiral Adolphus Andrews, commander of the eastern sea frontier, had been given authority to requisition ships needed for antisubmarine work.

The Navy secretary said ships had been ordered to shelter in two places along the coast at night because most of the U-boat attacks occurred after dark.

Darkening of cities along the east coast was also recommended to prevent the glare of lights ashore from silhouetting ships for submarines.

"HANDS OFF"—Said Charles H. Gillman, regional director of the CIO, in a statement issued yesterday pledging support.

IT'S JOBS—And not schools, that the Atlanta Federation of Trades is interested in, says Albert W. Gossett, president.

Labor Leaders Praise Plan To Train Bomber Workers

A training program to prepare workers for jobs in the Bell Aircraft bomber plant received the support of Charles H. Gillman, regional director of the CIO, and Albert W. Gossett, president of the Atlanta Federation of Trades, in separate statements issued yesterday.

The complete texts of the statements follow:

Gillman Agrees With Article

Gillman's statement: The article in Tuesday morning's Constitution presents the position that my organization and I have always taken in connection with defense training. We have always believed that defense training should be under the educational facilities of the state, county and city, and should be directed, controlled, and operated by them.

Information from Buffalo and other airplane centers indicates that the most important thing in the production of the war is the manufacture of airplanes in large quantities.

Being a native Georgian, I am, of course, enthusiastic about the ability of Georgia labor to produce in quantities and quality superior to any other section of the country, if properly trained.

Training Important.

We have no experience here in airplane crafts and the most important thing for this section to turn out bombers in large quantities is the training program. Bell Aircraft should be encouraged to send their skilled trainers in here to help the state, city and county train the thousands of men and women that must do this job for the defense of our country.

We for one, believe that all unions should be "hands off" the training program and we have so acted to date, and will continue to act, despite what might appear to be contrary to our personal interests.

This program is a challenge to Atlanta and southern labor, and we are not going to do anything that will prevent the mass production of planes.

Article Commendable.

Mr. McGill's article is very commendable, and if everyone will stay "hands off" and let educational departments carry on this training program with the benefit of expert advice that comes from Bell Aircraft or other aircraft centers, Atlanta labor can pick up this load and help fight for liberty by the production of thousands of fine planes, with the stability and character of the people of this community.

The selectees for the training jobs who are now in Buffalo, and who will be sent to Buffalo, is an important assignment and should be done impartially, regardless of union affiliations, political aspirations, or any other conditions other than the worth of the man to learn the technical processes and to teach them. The Bell Aircraft representative, who has left this community because of apparent interferences, should be called back here to help select these men, or if he is not available, an impartial man should be brought here, or an impartial man like Mr. McGill should be party to these selections so that no outside influence other than the worth of the man and his ability to do the job be essential.

Georgian's Duty.

The first duty of every Georgian is the winning of this war. The first duty of the educational institutions is the training of 40,000 people to make planes—and nothing should be allowed to interfere, scotch or slow up the training program from the selection of the men to do it, the securing of machines and material, the acceptance of the best available buildings for teaching purposes, and for the impartial allowing of every man, woman and child who wants to take training to come and get it, just like they

Brazil Bares Japanese Plot For Uprising

Resentment Smoulders in 2 Other Countries Over Sinkings.

By The Associated Press. An incipient plot by which Japanese in Brazil hoped to set off an internal uprising on a moment's notice by radio from Tokyo was uncovered by Brazilian police at Sao Paulo last night while public resentment smouldered and flared at times in two other Latin American republics over the loss of ships to Axis U-boats.

The disclosure of Japanese undercover operation in Brazil, which already has lost four ships to torpedoes in the Atlantic and probably a fifth which is too long overdue, told of Japanese plotters listening nightly to the surreptitious broadcasts for the word to strike—possibly in concert with other Axis spies.

The other countries gravely concerned over sinkings are Uruguay, which has broken relations with the Axis and otherwise has manifested co-operation with the United Nations, and Chile, which is a Pan-American holdout along with Argentina in still harboring Axis diplomats.

In the face of public demonstrations over the sinking of the Chilean freighter Totten outside New York harbor in the dark last Friday, the Chilean government appealed for "serenity" and opined that the attacking submarine—if indeed a submarine was responsible—would have spared the ship had it been permitted to proceed with lights and flag to denote its neutrality.

Uruguay took no such conciliatory view of the sinking of the Uruguayan ship Montevideo off Haiti and took note as well of the anti-Axis demonstrations that protested not only this first Uruguayan ship loss in the war but also the anti-democratic elements remaining there since President Baldomir dissolved congress to thwart a coup.

The sinking of the Montevideo was tied up curiously, and by wartime coincidence, with the sinking of the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee in the River Plate estuary in December, 1939.

Graf Spee Incident.

Sorely wounded in the running battle with the British down the south American coast, the Graf Spee refuted in Uruguayan waters while the British waited outside to make the kill.

A Uruguayan technical mission headed by Captain Rodriguez Varela inspected the Graf Spee and refused to extend its stay in port—in effect ruling that she must go out to meet the British again or remain bottled up for the duration. The German commander scuttled the ship, then killed himself when he got ashore.

The Captain Varela who thus made a fateful decision for Uruguay early in the war was the master of the Montevideo sunk by the Axis off Haiti.

War Relocation Office Set Up By Roosevelt

Persons Being Moved From Military Areas To Be Placed.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP) President Roosevelt established today a "War Relocation Authority," which will have charge of a program for the relocation and employment of those persons being moved out of military areas.

These people will be given an opportunity to enlist for the duration of the war in a "war relocation work corps." They would perform work essential to the war effort, White House officials said, but not of a type which would provide any opportunity for sabotage.

It was suggested they might engage, for instance, in agricultural pursuits and thereby release other workers for jobs more closely linked with direct production of weapons and war supplies.

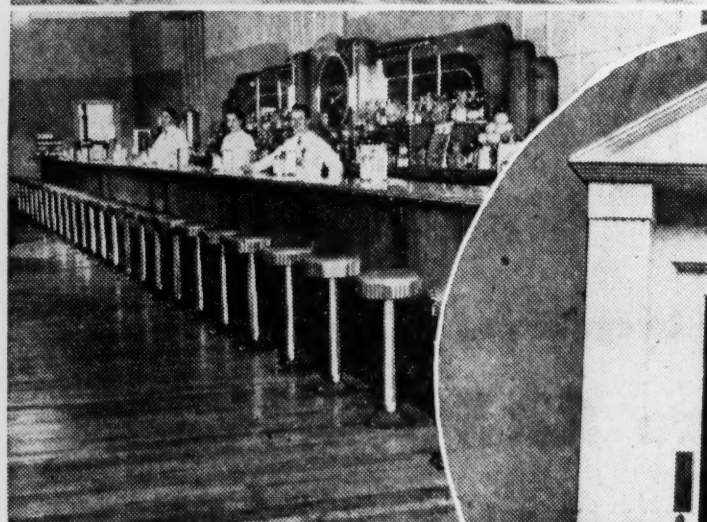

The director of the new authority, which was created by an executive order, will be Milton E. Eisenhower, a former land use coordinator of the Department of Agriculture.

Aussies Delighted As They Watch U. S. Forces Cut Red Tape

By TOM YARBROUGH.

SYDNEY, Australia, March 18.—(AP)—American officers and soldiers began cutting through red tape and showing their traditional mechanical ingenuity on this continental fortress today—to the delight of Australians.

The dramatic headlines about the arrival of the Yanks gave Australian morale its biggest boost of the war, even though most Australians had known about some landings for weeks.

The first transports, laden with planes and equipment, were unloaded before only a handful of waterside workers, police, militia and residents of the dock area—in marked contrast to the noisy welcome given peacetime visit of United States Naval units.

Within an hour, the troops poured down the gangways and marched three abreast to camp sites. A surprised populace cheered, quickly got out flags and bunting.

But the policy of secrecy on anti-Japanese preparations was quickly imposed, and later convoys went without greeting, and without mention in the newspapers.

A joking remark, frequently heard before the official announcement, expressed the public attitude: "Hello, Mister! Is it an official secret how you like it here?"

A customs officer explained that clearance was necessary for certain material, and "if we airmail Canberra (the capital) tonight we should have a reply say on . . ."

An American officer broke in: "Say, haven't you got a phone?"

"Yes—there was a phone." "Hop to it, Buddy. You're holding up the American Army," snapped the officer.

"There's a war on," said another American, who refused to be balked by the fact that power and light wires prevented big bombers from being moved into a hangar. He was told it would take two days to get taller poles.

Tractor, saws, timber and men were mustered. In two hours the poles had been hiked up on stilts.

Americans fit into the Australian scene as quickly and comfortably as a Texan in Missouri, or a Hoosier in Kansas.

There were a few minor inconveniences and strange ways, but Australians did their best to make the strangers welcome.

Transferring dollars to shillings puzzled some of the soldiers. A few untrustworthy money-changers were arrested.

Frequently the natives warned the Americans to be sure to get the right change.

Some Americans had trouble learning to keep to the left in traffic.

"I kept bumping into people on crowded sidewalks for three days before I discovered all Australians walk, as well as drive, on the wrong side of the street," one private complained.

Americans are quickly learning Aussie "language"—chemist for druggist, hairdresser for barber, scone for biscuit, biscuit for cracker, petrol for gasoline.

In the principal cities, airmen and soldiers throng the zoos, parks, skating rinks, cafes, and in the smaller places patronize the community dances and entertainment centers as in the camps back home.

Taxis are expensive, and Americans greatly appreciated that the street cars cut their fares a penny for uniformed men.

On landing, the first rush was to get into summer uniforms and khaki shorts, and then to the restaurants to try the excellent Aussie food.

When they were comfortably housed and well fed at huge camps in the interior, most men appeared well pleased with Australia. Said one Californian: "After finishing the Japs I think I will marry an Australian beauty and settle down here."

The papers are full of salutes to MacArthur, praise of the Americans and recollection of past American-Australian comradeship in arms.

Senator W. J. Ashley, minister of information, said "Australians and Americans today are blood brothers under the leadership of the hero of the Philippines, General MacArthur. It is a brotherhood born when their blood intermingled on the soil of France in 1918 on the day which is remembered by all Americans, July 4. On that day American troops fought with the Anzacs under an Australian commander in the battle of Hamel."

"The greatest soldier Australia has produced, the late Sir John Monash, was given 1,000 Americans from the 33d division for this battle and he afterwards declared it was the first occasion in the war on which Americans had fought an offensive battle. Before they had been holding the line."

"The American people in 1918 trusted their men to an Australian general who had demonstrated that he was imbued with the spirit of the offensive."

"Today the Australian people gladly trust their men to a great American general who has shown the world that the only true defense is the offense."

The Sydney Morning Herald said "General MacArthur is the embodiment of the aggressive spirit which Anzacs prize. His coming surely spells the end of retreatism."

At Jesup Calf Show

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.
JESUP, Ga., March 18.—Winton Harris, member of the 4-H Club and the Future Farmers of America chapter, for the second time displayed the winning grand champion steer in the Wayne county open junior fat calf show held here. His calf this year weighed 840 pounds and was sold to a local butcher for $23.75 per 100 pounds. He sold three calves which brought him $393.

Eleven 4-H Club boys from Wayne county and one 4-H Club girl, showed and sold 17 animals, and 12 F. F. A. boys showed and exhibited 14 animals, and two boys from Brantley county exhibited and sold four steers. Ernest Pace Jr., extension swine specialist, and A. V. Brown, Pierce county, judged the animals.

The first show held at Jesup was in 1939, when 80 per cent of all the calves shown were from Texas. This year, however, all the Wayne county and the Brantley county steers were raised at home, J. H. Chaffin, county agent, states.

The show was sponsored by the agricultural and livestock committee of the Jesup Kiwanis Club.

Axis Imposters in Uniform 'Confiscate' Coats, Luggage

BERN, Switzerland, March 18.—(AP)—There are so many collections of clothing, metal and other articles in Axis countries these days that the population isn't surprised at anything.

Recently in Bucharest a number of men in military uniform appeared on busy street corners and began confiscating brief cases and overcoats of pedestrians. They explained these articles were needed by the army.

By the time the authorities heard of it, the collectors had disappeared. An announcement said a gang of robbers was responsible.

Another Carole Lombard Role Is Handed to Joan Crawford

HOLLYWOOD, March 18.—(INS)—Joan Crawford's next M-G-M picture is "Bombay Nights" with Philip Don after she finishes Columbia's "He Kissed the Bride". Amazing in a way, how the shadow of Carole Lombard seems to be following the Crawford assignments. When Louis Bromfield wrote "Bombay Nights" he admitted that his heroine was patterned after the physical appearance of Carole. The illustrations that accompanied the story in Cosmopolitan Magazine also bore a marked resemblance to Carole. And, of course, as everyone knows, the role Joan is doing now—"He Kissed the Bride"—was the part Lombard was to have played before her tragic death.

Joan's return to the home lot should end all the stories that she has been feuding with the company that has held her contract for 15 years. There was a slight rift when she refused to do "Heart of a Lioness", but things were patched up.

Looks like a temporary collision between 20th Century-Fox and Monogram over which one got to the Hays office first with the title "Hot Rubber" and the story idea of bootlegging stolen tires. 20th has the story, written by John Kline, former chief investigator in the district attorney's office here, all ready and a cast lined up headed by Preston Foster, Dana Andrews and Brenda Joyce for a Byrnie Foy production. Monogram says they don't care who has who lined up. Tremm Carr, the head man, is sticking to his story that the title "Hot Rubber" is registered with the Hays office for his company, and that he's going to make a picture about bootlegging tires—and that's that.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Jackie Coogan got special leave to return to Hollywood about those divorce rumors. "If Flower is planning to leave me she hasn't told me," Jackie said. "Everything was fine when I left town last Friday." Ginny Simms and Bill Lundigan are really ablaze; Cary

Grant deep in a gin-rummy game at Mike Lyman's; Edgar Bergen and Fay McKenzie dining at the Hollywood tropics on Edgar's first night home from New York; Henry Fonda's smashed finger has closed down "The Magnificent Jerk" set for 10 days; Joan Davis suffered a slight sunstroke at Palm Springs and returned to Hollywood to recuperate; Janet Gaynor is huddling with New York producers about a Broadway show this fall. That's all for today. See you tomorrow. But May Musser, of Tacoma, Wash., says "Buy defense bonds and keep the flag waving. This land of the free is surely worth saving."

Operation Is Only Effective Means of Curing Cataract

By Dr. William Brady.

Anyone who says I advise or ever have advised that cataract may be cured by any other treatment than operation is a prevaricator (why use a four letter word if a longer one will do?) Before we go any further, let us have one thing distinctly understood: What I don't know about cataract would make a sheaf of authoritative textbooks. What I tell you here is simply and the gist of the present opinion of competent eye physicians or eye surgeons—which I believe I am qualified to interpret for the layman; that's all. Just to make it more emphatic, let me add that to the best of my knowledge and belief there is no reasonably effective remedy for cataract except operation.

Now this is far from saying that a victim of cataract must choose one of two alternatives—having the operation or going blind. On the contrary, I have already pointed out, in earlier talks on cataract, that in a good many instances the clouding or haziness of the lens (the sight) is so slow in development that it seems almost stationary and the patient goes for many years or for the rest of his or her life unaware of the existence of cataract. On the other hand, I do know enough about cataract to say with positive conviction that if I had cataract I wouldn't monkey with any alleged remedy, treatment or cure except (1) good hygiene (which I will outline presently) or (2) operation.

I know even less about the relative values or different types of cataract operation. Only the eye surgeon can judge about that, in each individual case. I merely know that many good eye surgeons now operate successfully before the patient has become incapacitated by failure of eyesight. That is, it is not necessary to wait for "ripening" of cataract in order to do a successful operation, in many cases.

It should not be necessary in this day and age to say that in any case cataract operation is painless. Local anesthesia renders the eye insensitive to pain. Yet I find some people, who are not a low I. Q. in ordinary respects, fooling with nonmedical measures and refusing to consult an oculist (eye physician) about cataract for fear he will advise operation. This is deplorable. It reminds me of several instances in which persons refused to submit to proper medical examination for fear the doctor might find they had tuberculosis, cancer or other disease. If one actually has the disease, surely it is better to find out whether it can still be cured. If one hasn't the disease, it is a great thing to be relieved of worry about it.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
Children Will Play.
At (a movie studio) everybody using the telephone must change the antisepetic disc over the mouthpiece as a precaution against spread of infection. You will appreciate this, doubtless. (M. G.)

Answer—It is a silly precaution and can have no effect upon the spread of infection. Don't be a child about "antisepsis." Even the most efficient known antisepetic can have no influence whatever upon the spread of respiratory infection, no matter in what manner the "antisepetic" is used.

Best Part of Lettuce.
Friend of mine seeing me prepare head lettuce for luncheon said I should not remove the limp outer leaves, as they contain valuable nutritive elements. I argue that they are best removed and discarded as they contain any poison spray residue or any foreign matter from handling.

(Mrs. E. C. W.)
Answer—If evidently bruised or soiled, outer limp leaves should be discarded. Otherwise they contain most of the calcium and most of the vitamin in the lettuce. Likewise cabbage.

Canker Sores.
Please repeat instructions for use of nicotinic acid to stop recurring canker sores. (W. A.)

Answer—Take 100 milligrams of nicotinic acid a day, divided in four doses, for two or three days.

Man Is Foolish to Sacrifice Present Because of Future Uncertainty

Dear Dixie:

Falling in love is no hobby of mine, but I admit that I have had some fine girls on the string during my day, but as yet have not married. Now I have one of the finest girls as "The Only One" and I am expecting to be called into service very soon. We have been going together for two years and could possibly make a go of it if Uncle Sam would leave us together. Do you think it is the thing to do just now?

Do you think it would be fair to her and to me to tie a knot in our lives when the future of the strength of that knot is unknown?

I want to do the right thing for her and myself, but I cannot see that it would help matters by marrying just now with my call coming in less than a month. Don't you think she would wait for me until the end even if it were five years if she loved me that much? And do you think that if she did not it would be a blessing that we did not try to make a go of it? Or is that just an idea of mine?

BUCK PRIVATE-TO-BE.
Yes, I think it is just an idea of yours. I do not doubt one minute that you have had your share of the girls, but from your outlook on life with regard to this girl, I think you are expecting a little too much of her.

If you love this girl, why not marry her, even though you may be leaving? Hundreds of others have done the same thing. You say you two have gone together for two years. That sounds as though there is some foundation for your love rather than just a sudden "I-have-got-to-go-to-war, so-lets-get-married-idea. It would be just as fair for you and this girl to marry now as it has been for all the other soldiers and girls who have hurried up wedding plans because Uncle Sam called them. The strength of the marriage knot may not seem as strong now with Johnny marching off to war, but love is the same, war or peace.

If you love this girl you should want to marry her now so that you could have some happiness with her before you are sent away.

Personally I do not think that you love the girl and I think that if the girl knew how you were considering the marriage she would give you the air. After all she probably has some feeling in the matter, and remember, she should have some consideration. Perhaps you do go off to war, and she sits home and waits for you and remains true to you, can you say now that when you come back, say in five years, that you will feel the same toward her?

And about her marrying someone else which you infer might be a blessing because it would prove that you two were not made for each other. Well, I do not think that would have anything to do with it.

I think you are being a little selfish in only considering what your reactions would be toward this marriage. Are you sure this girl would marry you if you do decide to propose? After all, she may have some ideas about this marriage and about you leaving her right away and her not having to sit at home and wait for you to come back. A lot of girls are willing to sit and wait for their soldier husbands and a lot of them get tired of waiting and fall in love with someone else. Propinquity is a great force in romance you know.

Take a straw vote among your brooms. You'll find they'll promise to be neater, more efficient, and last longer if you'll prop them with a broomstick holder. These little holders are inexpensive—screw into the wall easily.

With the pennies you'll save by giving brooms longer life, buy defense savings stamps and help Uncle Sam beat the Axis. Be sure, too, that the family wage earner enrolls in his company's pay roll savings plan.

MY DAY: Annapolis Stresses Intensified Training

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday.—Mrs. Helm, Miss Thompson and I went down to Annapolis, Md., yesterday. Every year I have been asked to speak to the Women's Club there. I begin to feel a little bit apprehensive that they will grow weary of having me speak to them so often, even though for me it is always a very pleasant occasion.

Lunch with the wife of the superintendent of the Naval Academy is a delightful prelude to the afternoon meeting. Just now, the superintendent is Admiral Beardsall, who was the President's naval aide for some time. Mrs. Beardsall told me that even though they had been there only a few weeks, they have had a number of guests, among them the Norwegian Crown Prince and Princess and their two daughters. I think the two little girls must have had a wonderful time seeing all the activities of the Naval Academy.

The boys are being hurried through their intensified training and there are usually short-term officers' schools going on as well. It seems to me that the buildings have been multiplied considerably in the last few years and there is not as much tree-shaded lawn space as there used to be. The city or Annapolis itself has great charm, some very lovely old houses and, of course, St. John's College, which is quite unique.

In the evening I dined with a few people from the British embassy who have organized a group which meets every two weeks, the better to acquaint themselves with what the American scene is really like. I had not realized how many British people were working in Washington until last night. I found the hall packed for the meeting.

This morning I spent a couple of hours at Miss Katharine Lennox's conference on the war needs of children. There were a great many organizations represented there, and I am sure they will make very valuable recommendations and be of assistance to all the agencies working with them throughout the country.

This afternoon Mrs. George Fitch is bringing Miss Grace Kim, a Korean girl, to see me. At 4:30 a group of 43 Latin-American students from Columbia University are coming in for a reception. After that, Mrs. Florence Kerr, with Dr. and Mrs. Samuel N. Stevens, president of Grinnell College, and Mr. and Mrs. Owen Lattimore, who have just returned from China, are coming in for a visit.

Reducer Loses Ninety-Three Pounds

By Ida Jean Kain.

When you hear of someone losing in the neighborhood of 100 pounds, you must wonder how she gets along later. Does she feel as well after the excitement of being slim has worn off? Is she as pleased with her new figure? Does it last?

A Canadian reducer, about whom I have told you before, seems to answer any such questions that might arise. Perhaps you recall her. She first took off 80 pounds and brought her weight from 220 pounds to 140 while going right along with all the hard work of a rugged frontier life. I nominated her "the most courageous reducer of 1940" and said that with only 10 more pounds off her weight would be perfect. At that time, her doctor told her she looks a good 10 years younger, and had greatly improved her health.

Now we have another chapter to her story. She writes: "Here I am again. I want to tell you how easy it has been to keep my weight normal for the past two years and that I have had excellent health. My weight is 127 pounds" (she lost 13 pounds more, bringing the total up to 93 pounds!) "and my size is a 16, which is quite a change from the size 48 at which I started reducing."

And if you are having a constant struggle with your appetite, read this: "When I weighed 220, I simply couldn't leave pie, cake and candy alone. Now I very seldom take any. I just don't care for them. I have a simple breakfast—citrus fruit, toast and tea; a luncheon with plenty of fruits and vegetables and a good dinner. I love my whole wheat bread. I certainly feel fine. I am never sick."

This slimming program was accomplished under the most difficult circumstances that can be imagined. It was imperative that the reducer keep feeling fit as she does a great deal of rigorous outdoor work. Because she lived in such a remote part of the country, her menus were more limited than usual. But by using canned fruits and vegetables, the latter with the liquid in which they were canned, cheese, eggs, canned meats and whole grain cereals, she was able to follow a protective diet.

In contrast to the average woman who likes to think housework is sufficient exercise, our energetic Canadian did her housework, helped to cut 30 cords of wood and did considerable other heavy outdoor work, and, with all that, did specific calisthenics every day. As a result, she slimmed down from a size 48 to 34—a difference of about 14 sizes.

This story shows a lot of things. That the average woman is a softie, that your health is improved and you grow younger on a good diet, and that it is no trouble to keep slim because you learn to like the protective low calorie foods.

Begin your diet with today's menu:

PROTECTIVE SLIMMING MENU.

Murdock Walker, 'Pete' Little Wed at Surprise Ceremony

... EVEN THOUGH the decision was made on the spur of the moment, and plans for their wedding were just as hurried, Murdock Walker and Perryman Little spoke their vows before an altar banked with white tulips, and even had a tiered wedding cake to cut! Which reflects credit on the ingenuity of Spencer and Verdery Boyd, whose summer home at Clayton was the scene of the nuptials last Sunday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, with the Rev. Wright G. Henry Jr. reading the Episcopal marriage service. It seems that Murdock and Pete (as Perryman is known to his friends) had been invited to spend the weekend with the Boyds at Nakisit, and since they planned to be married at an early date anyway, they decided that Sunday was just as propitious a time as any. Arrangements had been made for them to go to Clayton in the Boyds' car at 3:30 o'clock on Saturday afternoon. But at 3 o'clock they telephoned Verdery to tell her that they wanted to be married the following day and take a wedding trip to the Carolinas, so they would use Pete's car instead.

Verdery was "tickled pink," of course, and made arrangements for the ceremony as soon as she reached Clayton. It was she who provided the improvised altar of white tulips, ferns and lighted white tapers as a surprise for the couple. The dining room table was overlaid with a real lace cloth, hastily placed in the suitcase at the last minute by the enterprising Verdery. And a miniature spring garden, fashioned by her skillful fingers, formed the centerpiece for the table, the cake being placed at one end.

Amazing as it seems on such short notice, no detail was overlooked. There even were flowers for Murdock and for Verdery, who was her matron of honor. Gardenias and swainsona fashioned the bouquet adorning the bride's left shoulder, and yellow roses formed the latter's shoulder spray. The bouquets were furnished by Pete, who ordered them from an Atlanta florist just before leaving the city, and had them delivered by special messenger to the filling station where he was having his car serviced for the trip. They were hidden in the trunk of the car so that he could surprise Murdock!

Murdock, who is an attractive blonde, chose for her wedding a smart traveling costume of navy blue, with which she wore a becoming hat and matching accessories. Verdery was smartly attired in brown. Spencer gave the bride in marriage and Jimmy Calhoun acted as best man for Pete. Mary (Mrs. Jimmy) Calhoun played the nuptial music.

On their return from their wedding trip, Murdock and Pete will take possession of their new apartment at 20 Collier road. Incidentally, the rental of the apartment was accomplished in "nothing flat." On their way out of town on Saturday, the couple stopped long enough to look over the apartment, decided it was just what they wanted, and will move in the first of next week!

Announcement of the marriage will be received with sincere interest, for both enjoy enviable popularity and are members of prominent Atlanta families. Murdock is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Murdock Walker. Mr. Walker having been a well-known contractor. Mrs. Walker was before her marriage Emily Ravenel, of Charleston, S. C., from where she and Mr. Walker moved to Atlanta in 1900. Mrs. Walker Caldwell, the former Emily Walker, is the bride's only sister.

Murdock received her education at Washington Seminary, where she was a member of the Sigma Delta sorority, and at Oglethorpe University, where she joined the Chi Omega sorority. She is a valued member of the Girls' Circle for Talulah Falls School. For the past several years she has been assistant to the state historian in the Georgia Department of Archives.

Pete is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Reeves Little, prominent factors in the city's cultural and civic life. He bears the family name of his mother, who is the former Roberta Perryman. His father is a leader in business circles, having founded the Dougherty-Little-Redwine Company. Mrs. Charles A. Meriwether, the former Betty Little, is Pete's only sister.

Pete received his education at Marist College, Tech High school and the Georgia School of Technology. He is a member of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity and the Capital City Club. He is associated in business with his father as general manager of Dougherty-Little-Redwine Company, and is a director and past president of the Atlanta Manufacturers' and Distributors' Association.

If you would like to buy tickets to the Alec Templeton concert for your soldier or naval cadet guests, they may be obtained at half price and reserved in lower guests' home. Of course the man in uniform will have to call for his ticket at the all-star booth at Cable Piano Company. The concert takes place on Thursday evening, March 26.

... LAURIE DAVIS WEBSTER always reflects credit on the Peachtree Garden Club whenever she undertakes a flower arrangement. In this instance, Laurie came out with honorable mention at the International Flower Show held the first part of the week in the Grand Central Palace in New York City. As you know, it means something to win honorable mention in such an enormous show as is staged in the metropolis.

Talented Laurie chose dried flowers for her arrangement displayed in a copper container. Brazilian pepper berries in coral shade were combined with coral colored leaves and Sago palm leaves, and the Atlanta flower lover made her arrangement to conform with the lines set forth in horticultural teachings.

Parties Given For Miss Butters

Mrs. Ruthanna Butters, whose marriage to Lieutenant Martin Schofield takes place Monday, was honored yesterday at two social affairs.

The first was the luncheon given by Miss Anne Bell at the Mirador room of the Capital City Club. Spring flowers in pastel shades were used as the decorations and the place cards were of bridal design.

Covers were placed for Miss Butters, Miss Elizabeth MacKillop, Mesdames Morris McDonald, Nat Harrison Jr., Norris Maffett, Price Moncrief, Harry Gunnin, Ewell Gay, Wright Paulk, DeWitt Wilcox and Garling Dinkler Jr., and the hostess.

Later, Mrs. Price Moncrief was hostess at a bridge-tee at her home on Sixteenth street for Miss Butters.

Pastel flowers were used as the decorations and after bridge, tea was served at the individual tables. Miss John Blodgett assisted in entertaining.

Present were Miss Butters, Miss Anne Belle, Mesdames William Ralston, Norris Maffett, Axel Dodson, Dewitt Wilcox, Wright Paulk, George Carroll, Alex Harrison Jr., Jack Morris and F. H. Ross.

Miss Watson Wed To W. W. Fetner Jr.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 18.—Mr. and Mrs. Philip J. Watson Jr. announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Jean MacKenzie Watson, to William Westcott Fetner Jr. The wedding took place Friday morning in Ste. Genevieve, Mo., with only the bride's parents and Mr. and Mrs. William Westcott Fetner, parents of the groom, present. Plans for a formal wedding were cancelled after the bridegroom learned of his early induction into the United States Air Force.

The bride moved with her parents to St. Louis from Kansas City four years ago. She attended the Chicago Art Institute three years and later was a student at Washington University School of Fine Arts. She is a sister of Miss Patricia Watson and Miss Mary Watson.

The groom, whose parents live at 616 Vassar avenue, attended Western Military Academy at Alton, Ill., and Rollins College in Winter Park, Fla. A brother of Robert Fetner, he is the grandson of Mrs. W. H. Fetner and the late Mr. Fetner, of Macon, Ga. His mother is the former Miss Lucile Goodrich, of Atlanta, Ga.

Miss Mildred Walker Weds Mr. Ross at Chapel Ceremony

Announcement is made today of the marriage of Miss Mildred Walker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Walker, of Lakeland, Fla., and William Martin Ross, of Atlanta, which took place yesterday at the little chapel of Glenn Memorial church.

Fred B. Walker, of Beaumont, Texas, brother of the bride, officiated and the music was presented by R. Felder, organist, and Mrs. Mildred Fambrough, soloist. The ceremony was decorated with large baskets of white gladioli and two seven-branched candelabra.

Raymond H. O'Kelley was best man and Phillip C. Ross Jr., brother of the bride, were ushers. Alexander C. Walker, of Lakeland, gave his daughter in marriage.

Mrs. Colquitt Lee Chandler Jr., sister of the bride, was her only attendant. She wore a sky blue satin and chiffon, and carried a bouquet of mixed spring flowers.

The bride's wedding dress was of white duchesse satin, featuring a high draped neckline, long sleeves, puffed at the shoulders and tapering to the wrists. The skirt extended into a short train. Her short four-tiered veil of illusion fell from a seed pearl coronet. Her flowers were chrysanthemums and snapdragons, centered with a purple orchid.

Mrs. A. C. Walker, the bride's mother, wore a rose brocade taffeta gown and her flowers were pink roses and blue delphinium. Mrs. P. C. Ross, mother of the bridegroom, wore a navy blue sheer ensemble with matching accessories and her flowers were Talisman roses.

After the ceremony an informal reception was given at the home of Dr. and Mrs. C. L. Chandler Jr. on Westminster way, N. E. A handsome lace cloth covered the table and it was centered with a wedding cake. Mrs. Chandler, Miss Jewel Hord, Mrs. Charles Carty, Mrs. Raymond O'Kelley Jr., and Mrs. D. P. Belcher, sister of the bridegroom, assisted in serving.

The bride traveled in a gray and shirred pink print dress with wool jacket. Her hat was an off-the-face model of black straw and her accessories were black. The young couple will reside at 794 Piedmont avenue.

Out-of-town guests included: Mrs. D. F. Belcher, of Reidsville, Ga.; M. F. Martin, of Greenville, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Walker, of Lakeland, Fla.; Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Barnes, of Dayton, Tenn.; and Henry Canterbury, of Huntsville, Ala.

The bride's parents are natives of northern Alabama, and are related to the Vaughan, Walker, Proctor and Bynum families. They have lived in Florida for many years. The bride was graduated from Lakeland High school, and she attended Freed-Hardeman College in Henderson, Tenn., and Florida Southern College in Lakeland, where she attained her L. I. degree. She was pledged to the Alpha Chi Omega sorority. She studied X-ray technic at Duke University hospital and for the past 18 months has been the X-ray technician at St. Luke's hospital in Jacksonville, Fla. While in Jacksonville she took an active part in the Junior Women's Club and Glee Club.

Crackers Eye Blakeney Due To Ailing Arm of Rookie Shortstop

Vols Need Right-Hand Batting Punch--Gilbert

BATON ROUGE, La., March 18.—(AP)—What the Nashville Vols, of the Southern Association, need most right now is right-hand batting punch, Manager Larry Gilbert declared today.

Gilbert, pushing his baseballers through spring training, added the same problem existed with his club last year when Les Fleming and Oris Hockett provided most of the punch. Too, there were Gus Dugas and Charley Workman, the distance hitters and runners.

Right now the Vols' starting lineup has four left-hand hitters in Dugas, Legrand, Scott, Jimmy Nook and Dutch McCall. On the right-hand smacker list are Hank Helf, Jim Shilling, Charley Engle, John Mihalic and Roy Marion, Atlanta boy and brother of Martin and Johnny. Roy says to play shortstop for the Vols this year. These right-handers weren't any too powerful last season at the plate.

Although Gilbert hasn't said so, the consensus of opinion hereabouts indicates the Vol skipper will try to land a right-hand hitting outfielder to go with Dugas and Scott. Mihalic, infielder who suffered a broken leg in play last year, says he's permanently rid of pain and ready to go.

You'll certainly smile again if you use Constitution Want Ads.

Ex-Chick Star Now Training With Montreal

Fourth Exhibition Game Rained Out; Play Earnshaw's Team Today.

By JACK TROY, Constitution Sports Editor.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 18.—There is a persistent report in training camp that if Jim Cox's arm doesn't come around the Crackers may obtain Buster Blakeney, former Memphis ace, to play shortstop.

Blakeney is at present in training with the Montreal Royals at Daytona Beach. He is the property of Brooklyn.

Cox, who hit 360 with Selma, was held out of the last Birmingham game because his throwing arm was lame. He was bothered with arm trouble last year.

There may be nothing to the report about Blakeney, but it seems rather well-founded and, if true, would give the Crackers a key-stone combination second to none in the Southern League. Charlie Letch has no room for improvement at second.

It is seldom, indeed, that a Cracker spring game is called because of rain but it happened today after an all-night downpour.

George Earnshaw's Naval Air Base nine, of Jacksonville, will come here for a game tomorrow and Friday. The Crackers will repay the visit.

Earl McGowan, Elwood Lawson and Floyd Stromme will work three innings each against the Naval Air Base team.

Manager Richards took advantage of the lapse in the exhibition schedule to give the squad a few more hours of running in the interest of leg conditioning.

Five more rookies were sliced from the squad today. Eugene Lovett, Red Mathis and Bryan Howell were dispatched to Savannah, while Widmayer and Bill Tracy left for Deland. So far the squad has been reduced by 10.

Previously Joe Gautreaux, Dill and Hill went to Savannah, Harold Jackson returned home to Atlanta and Tommy Smith was sent to Deland.

Treadway Named Navy Lieutenant

Charlie Treadway, backfield coach at South Carolina last season, will report to the Naval Academy in Annapolis next Monday for a month's training before being assigned to duties in the naval physical training program for aviation cadets.

Treadway, old Georgia backfield star, will be commissioned as a lieutenant (junior grade) before reporting to his station.

COVERING CRACKER FRONT—Atlanta baseball fans clamor for pictures of their Crackers in training at St. Augustine and these pictures are coming in, despite the war and the scarcity of automobile tires. Kenneth Rogers, ace Constitution photographer, has obtained a bicycle and is shown here making the rounds on the Cracker front in Florida.

'Gator Swimming Team Will Enter SEC Meet

Florida Athletic Committee Finally Decides To Allow Tankmen To Defend Conference Title Here.

GAINESVILLE, Fla., March 18.—(AP)—Coach Frank Genovar said tonight that the University of Florida committee on athletics had reversed its decision and had decided to send the 'Gator swim team to the Southeastern Conference swimming meet in Atlanta.

It had been previously announced that the 'Gators would not participate. The decision was reversed at the request of the swimmers themselves, Coach Genovar said.

The Floridians have won the SEC crown for five consecutive years. The team, captained by Van Clief, of Winter Haven, will leave for Atlanta tomorrow.

Georgia Tech handed Florida its first setback in a dual meet in seven years, 41-34, at Gainesville, Fla., last week. The victory established the Jackets as favorites in the SEC meet.

Jacket Frosh Topple Tech High, 48-18

Tech's freshman team walloped the Tech High team, 48-18, in a match yesterday afternoon at the Tech pool. The Baby Jackets swept every first place except one, the medley relay, and they were disqualified from it.

The winners: 50-yard free style—Weeks, GT. (2:59); 100-yard breast stroke—Owens, GT. (2:20); 220-yard free style—Rothberger, GT. (2:41.5); 100-yard backstroke—Bubois, GT. (1:28); 100-yard free style—Bell, GT. (1:29); 200-yard relay—Won by Ga. Tech. (Earl Burdette, Stradman, Weeks, Rothberger), (1:51.3); diving—Paul Burdette, GT.

Russ Peters Belts Two Home Runs

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 18.—(AP)—Jeff Heath's eighth-inning homer gave the Clearwater Indians a 5-4 victory over the New York Giants today in a game featured by a barrage of four-baggers.

Two Indian pitchers limited the Giants to six hits, but three of them were home runs by Mel Ott, Babe Banna and Bill Jurges. Russ Peters, playing Lou Boudreau's shortstop position for the Tribe, belted two four-masters off Dave Koslo.

Swinney, Mullins Top Met Golfers

Mrs. Claude Swinney, with a 93, was low gross winner in the Metropolitan Women Golfers' weekly one-day play yesterday at the Piedmont Park course. Mrs. E. W. Fennell, with a 95, took second honors.

Mrs. J. C. Mullins won in the low net division with an 87. Mrs. W. G. Hastings followed close behind with an 88.

Suggs and Kirby Win Again in North-South

By DOROTHY KIRBY, PINEHURST COUNTRY CLUB.

March 18.—Revenge is sweet, they say, so I should feel pretty good after winning from Mary Jane Garman this morning, 3 and 2. Since she beat me last week we are now all even.

In today's match I got the advantage on the first hole by winning with a par four, but she squared things, taking the fourth with a par. We halved every hole until the ninth where Mary Jane got her par four while I took a five, so I was one down at the end of nine holes, shooting a 38 to Mary Jane's 37.

I won the 10th with a five but she took the 11th with a par to go one up again.

I won the 12th with a par four. We halved the 13th. And I took the 14th. This put me one up. I also won the 15th to go two up, and the 16th and that was the match. I had pars on 17 and 18 for a 76.

Jeanne Cline defeated Helen Siegel, 3 and 2, in the first upset of the North-South women's tourney.

Louise Suggs downed Freda Nolan on the 18th green by one up. Louise scored a 37 on the front nine and was all even at this point.

She came back and had Freda two down and two to go but lost the 17th and halved the 18th.

Tomorrow in the semifinals will find Louise playing Jeanne Cline and I will meet my old opponent, Mrs. Page, she having won, 4 and 3, from Sally Sessions today.

This will make the fourth time that Estell and I have met in this tournament. She won all three times before. I hope to break her string of victories this time. I have a job on my hands, so I sure hope to be hitting the ball well.

Down the Alleys

Martha Cleveland tossed in a beautiful 121-120-20—361 set in the Ladies' Circuit League matches this week and led her team to a three-game win over Queen Pin ladies. Brunswick dropped two to Holbrook Insurance Company and was supplanted in the lead by Scarratt's Garage.

Saturday night at the downtown alleys at 8 p. m. there will be held a handicap tournament with three cash prizes for both the ladies and the men's classes. A small entry fee of $1.50 will be assessed, which will include the cost of games. These weekly events afford most of the bowlers a chance to sharpen up their games by bowling against higher average bowlers, so sign up today.

Walter Lawson had a nice 395 set Tuesday night in the Gate City League.

Thursday night at Rome, two of the foremost among the Atlanta teams will battle it out for the Romans. Billed as merely an attraction for the people of Rome, these two national tournament bound teams will have a small stake on the side and intense rivalry abounds. For the No. 1 team, Bill Berry, Walter Lawson, Lowry Whisenand, W. F. Lowry and Ed Pearce will line up against the Dolly Dimple team of Jack Sheriff, Joe Chambliss, Carl Tidwell Sr., Louie Ouler and George Tyler. A high scoring battle is in prospect.

Word from Jack Pearce, one of the best liked of Atlanta's bowlers, who have joined the armed forces, who is now in Illinois in a training school, has been received to the effect that he misses his buddies in Atlanta and wants them to write to him. You can get his address at the downtown alleys.

Bo Bo Works Out With Detroit Club

LAKELAND, Fla., March 18.—(AP)—Louis Norman (Buck) Newsom, sporting three chins and an expansive midriff, engaged in his first workout at the Detroit Tigers' training camp today and indicated his holdout campaign may be drawing to a close.

The recalcitrant pitcher conferred with Zeller today and was told that the club positively wouldn't budge from its original offer—something he already had been told by telegram, telephone and letter.

Zeller emphasized that Newsom wouldn't be paid a quarter in salary until Manager Del Baker believes he is in physical condition to pitch.

City Basketball

SEWELL, DENTAL WIN. City basketball titles in four divisions, Class "A," "B," "C," men and girls, were decided Tuesday evening when the finals of the Golden Jubilee basketball championships were held. Sewell won the girls' title with a win over the strong Trojan outfit. Sewell Southern Dental College won the coveted men's title in the Class "A" bracket with a close win over Central Cafe, 37 to 32.

Naval Air Base won over National Battery to cap the Class "B" title and Sultana Club posed out the Boys' Club for the Class "C" championship.

Both winners and runners-up, along with individual and team, at the annual banquet scheduled, Wednesday, March 25. Reservations for the banquet may be made at the Y. M. C. A. or at the city recreation department.

Chotas Is Busy Mapping Ahepa Parley Program

National Convention To Be Held in Atlanta August 16-22.

N. D. Chotas, Atlantan, was up to his ears in work yesterday in his office at the Biltmore hotel. He expects to continue that way until after the national convention of Ahepa, to be held in Atlanta August 16 to 22.

Ahepa is the great order of Greeks in America, with 340 chapters and more than 70,000 members—all naturalized as Americans or having declared their intention of becoming citizens.

Chotas was the first national president of Ahepa, which was founded in Atlanta 20 years ago. Now he is chairman of the national convention committee, having left his life insurance business to its fate.

"Ahepa," he quoted the society's official journal, "has been recognized by President Roosevelt as official spokesman for the Hellenic people in America."

"The Atlanta convention won't be held for a good time," he continued. "Not in this year of war. It will be all business."

Just now Chotas is interested in the annual banquet of Ahepa, next Monday night in Washington. Attorney General Biddle will speak. The President has been a guest and always senators and representatives are invited.

"Greeks of America are doing all they can to help the starving people of Greece, whose plight is almost unbelievable," he said. "Several shiploads of supplies have been sent. One was sunk. The Turks are helping. All told, Greeks in America have sent more than $1,000,000 in supplies to Greece. But it is hard to reach the old country with all Europe at war."

1861-65 Relics Sought for War Museum Here

Haden, Kurtz, Simons Seeking Gifts for Cyclorama.

A nation-wide movement to obtain contributions of the War Between the States relics, documents and mementos—restricted to gifts of genuine historical value—was launched here Tuesday for the Cyclorama museum.

Charles J. Haden, veteran collector of such material, and who acted for George V. Gress in donating the Cyclorama to the city in 1898, initiated the step in company with Wilbur Kurtz, artist; George I. Simons, general manager of parks, and various representatives of the city government and press.

Haden announced he would donate numerous items from his own collection valued at $25,000, including six bound volumes of Harper's Magazine for the years 1861-66, and autograph letters of historic figures, including the noted Jessie Benton Fremont.

It was emphasized the museum area of the Cyclorama has 5,000 feet of floor space and 10,000 feet of usable wall space, and is completely fireproof.

"There were two sides to the Battle of Atlanta," said Haden, "and it is our purpose to make it a permanent lodging place for memorials of both. Besides its educative and preservative features, it will tend to join the two sections more closely."

WITH THE CONSTITUTION STAFF

City Salesmen Association will meet at 8 o'clock tomorrow night in the Henry Grady hotel. New officers will take over and committees will be appointed.

Atlanta bank clearings yesterday were listed at $22,000,000 as compared with $16,100,000 for the same day last year, the Atlanta Clearing House Association reported.

Congressman Robert Ramspeck yesterday inspected the United States Naval Reserve Air Base here with a group which included Scott Candier, Ivan Allen, Julius McCurdy, James Robinson and Frank Shaw. The party was guided by Commander D. Ward Harrigan, commandant of the naval base.

W. E. Mitchell, vice president and general manager of the Georgia Power Company, will speak on "Safety" to the Buckhead Civilian Club at 7 o'clock Monday night at the Colonnade, W. J. Shiver, secretary, announced yesterday.

Dr. Kenneth G. Matheson, of Bryn Mawr, Pa., son of the late Kenneth G. Matheson, former president of Georgia Tech, has been granted a leave of absence from his duties as assistant professor of economics at the Drexel Institute of Technology to accept appointment as business economist in the machinery section of the Office of Price Administration in Washington, it was learned here.

Judgment against the Georgia Stages, Inc., for $9,088 damages awarded to K. M. Miller, of Thomasville, was reversed yesterday by the Georgia court of appeals. A Thomas county superior court jury awarded the damages to Miller after a 1939 collision between his automobile and a Georgia Stages bus on the Thomasville-Boston highway. In the reversal, the high court held that a part of the superior court's charge to the jury was in error.

Fellowcraft Club of Capital City Lodge No. 842, F. & A. M., will hold a Dutch supper at 8 o'clock Friday night at the Tavern room for members, their wives and friends, it was announced last night.

Robert H. Jones Jr. will address members of the Atlanta Writers Club at 7 o'clock tonight at the Atlanta Woman's Club. He will speak on "The Literature of Liberty."

Congressman Robert Ramspeck will speak on "Our People and the War," at the luncheon of the Masonic club, to be held at 12:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at Rich's tea room.

Ben T. Huie, state labor commissioner, yesterday furnished $1,000 bail upon indictment returned Monday charging illegal political activity while an official party paid by federal funds. His co-defendants, Marion O'Connor and J. E. B. Stewart, subordinates in the labor department, gave bond Tuesday.

Delegation of Georgia petroleum products dealers will join other delegates from various states in

Sermon Series Is Opened by Dr. Barnhouse

Noted Pastor To Conduct Meeting Through Next Wednesday.

Dr. Donald Grey Barnhouse, a first lieutenant in the Army Air Corps during the first World War, and now pastor of the historic Tenth Presbyterian church, Philadelphia, opened a series of meetings at the Jackson Hill Baptist church last night. The meeting will continue at 8 o'clock nightly through next Wednesday.

Leaving the Army shortly after the Armistice, Dr. Barnhouse returned to Europe, where he lived for seven years doing religious work among the Belgian and French people.

During these years, he traveled extensively throughout Europe and Africa. He served as pastor of the French Reformed church at LaMure-d'Isere, preaching in French to the groups whose pastor had been killed in the war. He also conducted evangelistic services in the Huguenot colonial developments in French Africa.

Since returning to the United States in 1925, Dr. Barnhouse has been on a world-wide tour which carried him into all countries of the Near East and Far East and Germany. He holds degrees from the University of Grenoble in France and the University of Pennsylvania.

Lecture, Songs To Be Featured By Indian Diva

Ataloa Will Appear in Concert at Wesley Memorial Church.

Ataloa, Chickasaw contalto, born and reared in Old Indian Territory, Oklahoma, will present a concert of Indian songs and a lecture on tribal folklore at 8 o'clock tomorrow night in the Wesley Memorial Methodist church auditorium.

Recognized as an outstanding interpreter of the art, music and philosophy of the American Indian, Ataloa uses only the authentic melodies and stories of the Chickasaw tribe in her lectures and concerts. Her ceremonial costumes add much color to her presentation.

During the program here she will open with a lecture, telling what the Indian has given to the civilized white race. A group of tribal melodies including the "Mourning Chant," the "Love Song" and the "Lullaby" will be sung. Stories about the rabbit and the owl, the fox and the crow and other legends, common to the Indians will be recited.

Today, The Swanee River quartet will sing.

Robert Lee Garrison, young six-foot Negro, pleaded guilty to four charges of robbery in Fulton superior court yesterday and received as many five-year sentences to follow each other, from Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy. The prisoner was responsible, it was brought out, for a recent series of purse snatchings in the northeast section of the city.

Henry E. Fulghum Post No. 117 of the American Legion will meet at 8 o'clock tonight at the Hapeville city auditorium, it was announced yesterday.

LOOK! YOU CAN SEE THE SCARS HE GOT FROM HERE TO HERE. I WAS UNDER GAS FOUR HOURS.

MY DEAR, THAT WAS NOTHING. THEN LEFT A SPONGE AND THE DAILY PAPER IN ME WHEN THEY SEWED ME UP.

DID I EVER TELL YOU ABOUT THE TIME I WAS STABBED WITH A HATPIN BETWEEN THE DIME STORE AND THE DELICATESSEN?

JUST EXACTLY LIKE MY AUNT OPHELIA MUSSEL.

'Bugs' Baer Says:

Well, the Star-Spangled Banner is still leading the hit parade and it's going to stay on top like your grandma's poke bonnet.

American courage will keep it there and I don't mean foolhardiness. Courage is walking naked through a cannibal village. Foolhardiness is doing the same thing with parsley in your ears.

Mixed in with that courage I want a bit of corrosive sublimity of hate. I want it for the same reason you put cement in sand. To make it stick better.

From now on we start hating at the boiling point and keep on hating until it vaporizes. Then you hate 'em by steam.

'Sell It Back' Drive Started As Sugar Aid

Accumulated Quantities Now Will Be Bought by Grocers.

If you have hoarded in haste it's not too late to repent gracefully. Officials of the Atlanta Office of Price Administration, launching a "Sell It Back" campaign yesterday, announced that otherwise patriotic citizens, who somehow have accumulated more sugar than they need, may sell it back to their grocer or sell it to their neighbors before registration for sugar rationing cards starts. Local merchants are participating and will be glad to buy back sugar from patriotic householders who have overstocked.

Advices received from Administrator Leon Henderson by the local OPA headquarters warned housewives against attempting to sell back sugar which is hardened, dirty or has otherwise deteriorated in quality.

"Hoarding helps Hitler," Henderson charged, "regardless of whether it's sugar or shoes, canned goods or clothing. Hoarding creates artificial demands for goods which force the government into rationing with its resultant annoyances, expense and confusion. Hoarding puts extra demands on men, material and machinery which should be used to manufacture war materials for our soldiers and sailors."

"It's not smart to hoard or bootleg scarce goods. In some instances, as our Allies abroad have found, it can be almost treasonous. I'm convinced the American public is going to point the finger of shame in the months ahead toward those unpatriotic and selfish citizens who seek to gain an advantage over their fellows by hoarding."

Waycross Judge Places Defendants on 'Alert'

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. WAYCROSS, Ga., March 18.—City court defendants who are careless about reporting when their names are called, holding jurors idle and delaying the action of the court, are going to foot the bill, Judge C. W. Pittman revealed yesterday at the regular March term.

Several defendants who were arrested and brought into court, after their cases were called, had the sum of $21.50 added to their fines.

"The court is going to make a defendant who has given bond pay a little more attention to his responsibility in living up to the terms of that bond," Judge Pittman asserted.

Well Known Stage and Screen Stars

MISCHA AUER turned his hair problems over to Thomas when he first noticed any trouble. Now he says, "My scalp feels perfect; my hair doesn't seem to fall abnormally any more—and I find no trace of dandruff." On the other scalp, Frank Libuse waited too long. When he came to Thomas recently, he was frankly told that Thomas treatment could not help him. Thomas accepts for treatment only persons for whom satisfactory results seem possible.

The moral in the above is "Don't delay!" Decide today to give your hair and scalp proper attention. Let Thomas remove your dandruff, and relieve the itch which it may be causing. Each day 1600 other persons are enjoying the benefits of Thomas' 20-year proved treatment. You, too, will find pleasure in that "scalp happy" feeling. Come in today for free, private consultation and advice. See for yourself exactly how this reliable method works. Give your hair a chance!

FIRST THING WE MUST DO IS LOCATE ELAY HARDWARE COMPANY, TWENTY SOUTH END STREET, SHOWN ON THE PAPER STUCK TO OMALLEY'S SHOE!

SOUTH END STREET IS NO DAZZLING BOULEVARD, PAT!

YOU SAID IT, TRACY! LOOK!

THERE'S THE PLACE! NUMBER TWENTY. IT'S A DINGY LOOKING DUMP!

BUT THE ELAY HARDWARE IS A BIG OUTFIT. WHAT WOULD THEY BE DOING WITH THAT?

DON'T LOOK NOW, BUT ISN'T THAT A SQUAD CAR?

OH, KATIE! WHEN TH' LAST ONE LEFT AT ELEVEN I FIGGERED HED TURN IN—BUT INSTEAD HE DASHED OUT AN DROVE AWAY—WHERE?

OVER BEYOND THE TRACKS! MRS. RAFFERTY'S LITTLE GIRL, JANE, IS WORSE—

ALL WE CAN DO NOW FOR A WHILE IS WAIT AND SEE—FOUR LITTLE KID—SHE'S FIGHTING—THAT'S A LOT—

YES—AND TO HAVE YOU FIGHTING FOR HER IS A LOT, TOO—

BY THE WAY! YOU SURE HELPED—A DOCTOR COULDN'T HAVE DONE MORE—DID YOU EVER STUDY MEDICINE, PADRE?

OH, IN A WAY—ONE TIME IN CHINA I WAS THE ONLY DOCTOR FOR NINE HUNDRED MILES—BUT I WASN'T VERY GOOD—

MY PATIENTS WITHERED AND DIED LIKE AUTUMN LEAVES—BUT CHOLERA CAN BE LIKE THAT, WHEN ONE IS UNPREPARED—YOU WOULD HAVE DONE MUCH BETTER—

HM-M-M— I'D TRADE EVERYTHING I HAVE FOR JUST A FRACTION OF YOUR WISDOM, PADRE—

OH BOY, OH BOY, OH BOY! IS MAMIE MAD!

DON'T BE A SAD UNCLE WILLIE. DUCK IN THERE AND PLOP DOWN ON YOUR KNEES AND I'LL GET YOU OUTTA THIS.

NOW LISTEN, MAMIE, YOU WOULDN'T SOCK A GUY WHILE HE WAS SAYIN' HIS PRAYERS, WOULDJA?

NO, KAYO, I GUESS I WOULDN'T DO THAT!

BUT I GOT A PLENTY OF PATIENCE TO WAIT TILL THE STUPID SONOVA SEACOOK SAYS "AMEN"

YOU AND YOUR BIG IDEAS! POOEY!

STRETCH, JACK! KID BROTHER, HAS LEAVE TO DRIVE CHERRY PIERCE VISIT HER MOTHER—

I JUST CAN'T BELIEVE MY MOTHER KILLED MY FATHER—WHAT AN AWFUL THING THIS IS—

I WONDER IF THIS WILL MAKE STRETCH FEEL DIFFERENTLY ABOUT OUR ENGAGEMENT—

A PENNY FOR YOUR THOUGHTS, CHERRY PIE—WERE YOU THINKING HOW SOON WE'LL BE MR. AND MRS. P?

YES, STRETCH, HONEY!

BUT WILL IT EVER BE MR. AND MRS. P?

...TANK TO ARMY AIRPLANES! WE ARE AMERICANS! ...IF YOU HEAR ME, WIGGLE YOUR WINGS!

WHAT KIND OF BUSINESS IS THIS? FIRST A JAP TANK BREAKS OUT AN AMERICAN FLAG—THEN I PICK UP A VOICE SPEAKING ENGLISH...

...CAPTAIN! THOSE PEOPLE HUDDLED NEAR THE TANK WERE NOT SOLDIERS...IT'S THAT REFUGEE CROWD THE COLONEL SAID WAS IN THIS AREA...

MAYBE THEY'VE CAPTURED A TANK AND ARE TRYING TO RUSH THOSE BARGES!

SOUNDS LIKE A FAIRY TALE—AND WE HAVEN'T TIME TO PAWDLER AROUND HERE—BUT WE'LL COVER THEM UNTIL THEY GET ON BOARD...

AS THE AMERICAN AIRPLANES CIRCLE TOWARD THE WATERFRONT... BEHOLD! THE AIRPLANES THAT RAIDED OUR AIR FIELD!... BEHOLD, AS WELL, ONE OF OUR IRON MONSTERS—HERDING THOSE PRISONERS! TOGETHER, WE SHALL BEAT OFF THE BIRD MEN!

DESPERATELY SUPERMAN LEANS BACK, SKIDS THE REMAINING DISTANCE DOWN THE MONUMENT IN AN EFFORT TO STOP THE PRECIPITATE PLUNGE.

TOUGH ON THE SHOE LEATHER!

BUT TIGHTER ON ME!

...COMING TO A COMPLETE STOP JUST ONE FOOT FROM THE GROUND, HE CALMLY STEPS DOWN!

END OF LINE!

SAFE ON THE GROUND AT LAST!

YOU WERE ABOUT TO TELL ME WHO YOUR BOSS IS! REMEMBER?

HE IS—LEER!

MRS. GUMP! MRS. GUMP! LOOK!

TILDA! FOR HEAVEN'S SAKE! WHAT IS THAT?

MERCY!

GOOD GRIEF! THAT'S THE REAL MUMMY!

OH MIN!

TARZAN KNEW NOW THAT ENEMY AGENTS HAD PENETRATED TO THIS REMOTE SPOT, WAITING HIS CAPTURE.

HE WAS BOUND TIGHTLY WRISTS AND ANKLES AND BORNE TO A PRISON HUT!

THERE A SENTRY STOOD GUARD WHILE THE VILLAGERS DANCED...

IN CELEBRATION OF THE REWARD THEY'D WIN TOMORROW FOR DELIVERING TARZAN INTO THE HANDS OF HIS FOES.
